Mr. Forster, M. P., on England's Attitude Toward America.

Sir Francis Head's Letters in Reply to Senator Sumner.

American Complicity in the Canadian Rebellion.

The Policy of the United States from a French Stand-point.

The Cunard steamship Java, from Liverpool May 22 and Queenstown May 23, and the Ville de Paris, from Havre May 20 and Brest May 22, and Holsatia, from Hamburg May 19 and Havre May 22, reached this port yesterday. The news thus at hand—news of the highest interest—is later by two days than that already at hand. Captain SUMMONS, of the Ville de Paris, and Captain EHLERS, of the Holsatia, have our thanks for later Continental papers.

ENGLAND AND AMERICA.

Mr. Forster, M. P., on the Attitude of England During the Union War.

Right Hon. W. E. FORSTER, M. P., met his constituents on May 21, at Bradford. After a brief reference to home affairs, he made the following remarks upon Anglo-American topics:

"Bear with me for a few minutes while I talk to you upon a question which I have very deeply at heart, upon which I have often spoken to you before; it is with regard to our relations with our kinsmen on the other side of the Atlantic. Now, let it be clearly understood that I am speaking solely for myself. As I told you, I am not a Cabinet Minister; and with regard to this question, I did not consult any of my colleagues, and no one is responsible for anything I shall say upon it except myself. You know how desirous I was for friendship with the United States. You know how I have struggled for it, and you know this because you have helped me in those struggles at the time when there was danger to peace between England and America from what might have been done in England. I shall always be grateful for that help—you helped me with power, and with vigor, and with earnestness to do what in me lay to remove that danger, so that England should not be responsible for any disagreement with our kinsmen in America. And, now, if there be danger still, it is danger in America; I do not wish to exaggerate that danger—I believe it is exaggerated danger; but if there be danger at all, it is danger there. Well—it is a curious fact—almost desire that you were all Americans. I wish, instead of talking to Bradford constituents, I were talking to my American friends. For I believe I have friends in America; I wish I were talking to them, and, perhaps, wish I were them, and they may feel that I am talking, not, as a member of the British Government, but as a man whose sympathies are with the North, where he has taken part in politics, and where he has had a feeling and faithful friend. A chief reason why I at all allude to this subject this evening is on account of a speech which has excited a great deal of attention, made by a personal friend of my colleague, Mr. SUMNER. I need not say anything to you in praise of Mr. SUMNER. Educated people have studied American questions, they studied them before the civil war, and during the war, and afterward, and they know all about Mr. SUMNER. They know that Mr. SUMNER was a man who suffered for the cause of right; who suffered for the cause of humanity in the cause of the slave; who stood by his country in its great struggle as a patriot should have stood by it, and whose voice, therefore, even if I was not related to him on terms of personal friendship, I should look upon with respect and with the greatest possible attention. Mr. SUMNER has done me the honor in the speech to which I allude, to quote from past speeches of my own, and therefore I am sure he won't complain if I make some allusion to what he has said. He has taken a ground which I greatly deplore. We in England had persuaded our Government to offer to submit to arbitration our dispute with America with regard to the injury inflicted by the Alabama and other vessels; if was not very easy to persuade Englishmen to do this, but we did persuade them. It was only right that we should do it; it would have been most wrong if we had not done it; we ought to have done it long ago. Mr. SUMNER, in his speech, appears to reject this proposal of arbitration, and to demand instead of it an apology—almost, I might say, an abject apology—and some untold sum of money besides. Why does he make this demand? Chiefly upon two grounds, on both of which I venture to think he is mistaken. He first says he demands it because the proclamation of neutrality that was issued in the Queen's name at the commencement of the civil war was uncalled for, and premature, and by having proclaimed neutrality England broke it, and, in the strong words, threw her sword into the struggle. Well, now, I am not here as an apologist for all that our Government or England has done. You know very well that I am not, for I was most earnest in deprecating much that was done. But I do say that in both these respects I venture to think Mr. SUMNER is mistaken. Now, with regard to the proclamation, that appears to be the great cause of offence against England in the mind of Mr. SUMNER and of many influential and most excellent Americans at this time. I want you to look back long and hear with me if I go into a rather dull discussion, as the question is very important. Look back now to what was the position of England when the war broke out. Suddenly Englishmen heard the news of the South having rebelled against the North. It was a surprise to Englishmen generally. It was little of a surprise to me, because I had studied American affairs long ago; but it was a surprise to Englishmen generally, and I believe it was a surprise to Americans generally. But, however, it was true, and the whole of the South rose against the North. And what was the position of England to do? Why, it was her duty to consider that, however much she might lament that war, she would have nothing to do with aiding either side. It was the proclamation of our determination to have nothing to do with aiding either side that Mr. SUMNER complains against. He says it was precipitate, premature, uncalled for and hasty. Well, I believe it was premature. We have been issued two or three days earlier than it should have been issued. My excellent and my dear friend Mr. ADAMS had only just arrived, and perhaps it would have been better to have let him get thoroughly at home in the Embassy here in London before it was issued. But that is a mere matter of etiquette, and I cannot suppose a matter of that kind would ever have thought to be a reason for disagreement between two great nations. That it would have been necessary within a few days I am perfectly sure. Just consider what was the state of things. Just was that great war raging between these two portions of our country. The States of the South were in rebellion against the Union; there were a vast number of Americans—Southern Americans—in the Southern States and in England trying all they could—using every exertion by some means or other—drag us into war. It was our business to prevent them doing so if we could. How could that be done? Simply and solely by the Queen issuing her orders that it should take no part in the struggle. It is said it was a hostile act. Well, I don't think any one can quite sure Mr. SUMNER meant, and I don't believe any American will—charge me with being hostile to the North. If there was one thing that I have longed for in the course of my life it was that the North, representing the principle of freedom, should conquer the South, which represented the principle of slavery. I hope it is not an unpatriotic thing to say that I could hardly conceive of any thing in which my own country would be engaged in which I should feel more earnestly than I did in that struggle in which our kinsmen—men were waging war for freedom against slavery. Well, having that feeling, I thought it was my duty—perhaps I was wrong, but I say it, having that feeling, being most anxious for the interests of the North, to save the Union—I most earnestly desired that proclamation; if I could to obtain it. In fact, it was done, and did all I could to obtain it. But if it happens, as I stated last year in the House of Commons, that at that moment I had only just been returned by you; and although I was only a unimportant member, I felt in my duty—position—I was more alive to the question than other members, as I had watched it before—to put myself forward more than otherwise I could have felt I had a right to do in putting questions to Ministers on the subject, and bringing it before them. And the realized is that the first statement that there should be a proclamation issued was made in answer to a question of Mr. GEORGE LEWIS, the then Home Secretary. Why was it I asked that question? Why was I anxious for that proclamation? For this reason, that I knew the feelings of the South had gone very far in England before the war broke out, and I was afraid that, unless there were some decided expression of feeling, numbers with letters of marque would sail from our ports without delay. Well, but then," Mr. SUMNER would say, "it was your business to have declared them pirates, and to have taken them up as pirates." This was my first feeling, and I remember very well—as well as if it had been yesterday—wondering whether I should not come forward in the House of Commons, and ask that they should be treated as pirates. But I felt that I should be a serious measure to take, and that I should be sure of my ground before making the application; and I remember very well going to the Attorney-General, who happens to be here, and asking him if he was content with the search I had made in the library of the House of Commons, and looking over the opinions of writers on international law—the great authorities, generally looking over the writings of the great international lawyer, WHEATON, I saw clearly, according to the principles of international law, my acknowledged by civilized Governments, and especially advocated and enunciated by the United States, that when there was a war or insurrection between rebels and a Government any neutral country was bound to consider them either party as pirates, and that it could not treat its own subjects who might aid either party as pirates, although it was bound to do all it could to prevent those subjects from aiding them. The reply that is made by Mr. SUMNER to that—and I must state, if he will allow me to say so, and I would say it to him if he were here—that at that time, as this, "Oh, there was war by land. We do not deny it"—and I think it would be difficult for them to deny it, considering the immense amount of courage, of resources and of patriotism they have been exhibiting—"there was no war by land." But there was no war by sea, and you made that war by proclaiming neutrality and recognizing the South as a belligerent Power." Well, but really that is not the case. It is true that the South had ports—ports looked up and very few vessels got out, although it is a fact, which our American friends do not seem to remember—these four first vessels that came out of the South to prey upon Northern commerce came out a year before any vessel was built in England. And I believe that one of them—at any rate a prize, but to be a belligerent. But putting that out of consideration, there was no question of blockade; what was the meaning of war—scaling the seaports was an act of war. Mr. SUMNER says: "Do not consider the ports blockaded; we might have closed the ports instead." But really this is playing with words. What was our position? It was a carrying on of a great trade with the South—a trade which was the life and bread of a large portion of our population. That trade was suddenly stopped—stopped by the blockade of the North—by the act of the North—the forcible act of the North; and I say it is vain and foolish not to allow that to have been the act of a belligerent power. Why, the first speech I made in the House of Commons was in the interest of the North against the South, to prevent, not the recognition of a war, and the recognition of belligerents, which was a fact—but to prevent the recognition of what was not a fact, and has not become a fact. I am thankful to say—for I was the advocate of the South. What was the independence of the South? What was the great argument in speaking against the recognition? Why, that this blockade, which was the act of a belligerent power, was an effective blockade, and not a sham blockade. I will try to bring the question home to you. Imagine a case if you can do so—it is almost impossible—but imagine a civil war between England and Scotland; imagine Scotland in the hands of rebels, and the rebels in possession of the whole of Scotland—the Southern rebels had got possession of the whole of the South—imagine, also, that England had kept possession of her navy, and that she was able to blockade the ports of Scotland, and that there was a great American—as was the case between Scotland and America—and add to that that it would not exist—that America depended almost for her very existence upon the produce of Scotland. Suppose that England stops that produce going out, and declares a blockade, what would we expect you to do? Not to help Scotland, but to keep us—but to be perfectly neutral, and to give orders that all the forces of the United States should be neutral. This is what we should expect under these circumstances; and that is what we did in regard to America, and that we have no right to complain against that. But there is another complaint that he makes—that having proclaimed neutrality he broke our proclamation, and he ends his eloquent speech in these words: "The truth must be told to the United States as injury, not difficult to measure. Considering when it was done, and with what complicity, it is most unaccountable. At a great epoch of history," most unaccountable, was, it was a great epoch—"not less than that of the French Revolution, or that of the Reformation, when civilization was fighting a last battle with slavery, England gave her name, her influence, her material resources, to the wicked cause, and flung her sword into the scale with slavery." Now I regret—no one more than I do—that we did not half that struggle as a neutral, as a Government in the same way as you and I should have hailed it, and, as far as we could have done, without insulting them with mutual aid, which they would have felt an insult, have done our best to support them. It is true that we flung our sword into the scale with slavery. I say we have been guilty of the sin of England who deprived Africans of their rights of citizenship by taking the seat in the House of Commons where was Mr. ROEBUCK, who disgraced his name, his life, in which he had been fighting hard for freedom; there was Sir JOHN PAKINGTON, who, I daresay, laments the words he spoke; but did not Sir JOHN PAKINGTON withdraw his words? Never. I wish we could get rid of all the words that are spoken against England in the House of Representatives, or in the Senate of the United States. Sometimes they do fall without rebuke; but I am thankful to say that words derogatory to America have never fallen without rebuke in the House of Parliament. We have had champions—I am not going to speak of my own humble efforts—but there was CORDEN, who has gone; there was BRIGHT, who is living, who always rebuked these sayings, and America ought not to forget it. Then, again, there have been newspapers that took the side of the South. Well, there are newspapers, and very powerful and very able newspapers—your own newspapers, London—who took the side of the North. Well, then they say, if American travelers came to England they could not go into a club in Pall-Mall, they could not go into a drawing-room in Belgravia without hearing some reproach against their country. Well, there were drawing-rooms in which that was not the case; but, generally speaking, it was so, I grant it. But I come to this, that Republican Americans are to judge of England by the fashionable clubs and their drawing-rooms? If they wanted to know what England felt, they, the Republicans, the men of the people, ought to have gone to the workshops of the people and the hearts of the people. There they would have found in that workshop in Lancashire, which was no longer a workshop because of their war; by that hearth-stone, which was cold and dreary, where there was hardly a meal, and where they would have found of their war—there they would be cooked because friends; and it is not fair for Mr. SUMNER, or for any American, to forget these friends, and to remember those fashionable men who, after all, did not guide the destinies of England. I have lived all about what individuals have done, but I feel that that is not what we really have to do with. But I am referring to it because our American friends so constantly talk about what individuals have done. But what they have to do with is what the Government has done. Well, you and we, we by your help—kept the Government straight, and the Government did not draw its sword on the side of slavery. It is true that Lord RUSSELL, or rather the man who were acting under Lord RUSSELL—because it was not his doing—allowed the Alabama to escape. There was great neglect in allowing her to escape. I had never been in allowing her to escape. I had never been in allowing the rebels to build the refuge in British ports. I know that I did my best to denounce that mistake; but I feel that I have some little right to complain against my friend Mr. SUMNER when in this question, and this great crisis of a question, he quotes my words as if they were against my own country, without remembering that those words were used for my country, and used with success, for they kept England, I say, from breaking the neutrality. There was that great mischief done, and I have said with success, for it

BEQUEST TO PHILADELPHIA.

Will of the Late Dr. James Rush—He Leaves his Estate to the Philadelphia Library Company.

The will of the late Dr. JAMES RUSH was admitted to probate in Philadelphia yesterday. The original will, which is very voluminous, was drawn in 1868. The testator gives all his property, after payment of debts and certain moderate bequests and annuities, to the Philadelphia Library Company, to erect a suitable fire-proof building, and to maintain the library. The bequests and annuities are to certain servants, relatives and friends, and they range in amount from $300 up to $1,600. Only small annuities are left to his nephews and nieces, and a recent codicil annuls these in the cases of three of them. Among the conditions imposed by the will are the following:

"That the said Library Company shall not exact, allow or permit any lecturing, public readings, or oral addresses, or exhibitions of any kind to be delivered, given, or to take place on the said lot of ground or in the said building; nor shall they sell, allow, or permit the formation of any cabinet of coins, or collection of natural history, statuary, sculpture, portraits, or paintings thereof or thereto; nor shall they use, apply, or expend any funds derived from me, or under my will, in incurring or defraying the expense of any such lectures and exhibitions, public orations, or oral addresses, or in the establishment or support of, or for additions to, any such museum, cabinet, library, or collection, failure or neglect to comply with the said lot and building, or elsewhere. These objects foreign to and inconsistent with the legitimate purposes of a public library, and it is only the place, curtailment, restraint, and contentment of such a library, without any ambitious or pretentious display, that is desired to make provision for."

Dr. RUSH's brother-in-law, HENRY J. WILLIAMS, Esq., is appointed executor, and the will provides that the estate shall go to him in case the Library Company refuse or neglect to comply with the requirements. The estate is rated by the executor at less than $1,000,000. There are three codicils to the will, the first of which provides:

"First—One of my objects in giving my residuary estate for the use of the said Library Company was to express my respect and regard for my father-in-law, the late JACOB RIDGWAY, and my affection for and gratitude to his daughter PHŒBE ANN RUSH, by erecting to their memory a monument, as it was from them I derived the greater part of my property, which has enabled me to devote, happily and undisturbed, the latter part of my life to pursuits of scientific inquiry, which I have designed to be more beneficial than the mere common enjoyment of an ample fortune; it is both just and proper that I should thus employ it, the more especially as Mrs. RUSH had left me to believe that if she had survived me she would have applied it to a similar purpose; in order to carry out this intention, I direct my executor to have a marble edifice built, with the following inscription engraved and maintained on some appropriate part of the interior rooms of the new Library Company Building, in which my private library and other personal effects are to be preserved: 'The Ridgway Branch of the Philadelphia Library. A Monument to the Memory of JACOB RIDGWAY, and of his daughter, MRS. PHŒBE ANN RUSH.'

"Second—I direct my executor to have inserted in the act of Assembly which will be required to carry out the provisions of my will and codicils, clauses enacting:

"1. That not more than one-fourth of the directors of the Library shall belong to any one of the three learned professions of law, theology or medicine. This clause is not intended to exclude any of the present members from reelection.

"2. That the number of shares in the Library shall be limited to those actually issued at the time of my death.

"3. That the Library shall not connect themselves with any other body corporate or politic.

"Third—I will add that my reasons for choosing the Philadelphia Library Company for my residuary legatee derive great force from the fact that it has always been conducted quietly and unobtrusively, and pursuing the appropriate objects for which such libraries were established, keeping entirely clear from the excitement of party politics, which often means whereby public bodies are frequently seek to obtain an ephemeral and mischievous notoriety, and because, during my early life, I derived great pleasure and advantage from the use of the books, and from the courtesy and civility with which they were always furnished me.

"Fourth—I understand that the managers of the Library Company have never applied any of the funds derived from the expenses of the sale of the shares of which they are accustomed to partake at the monthly meetings of the Board, but have invariably paid them from their own personal means. I highly approve of this course, and I do not wish it to be changed, and I direct that no part of the Ridgway branch of the Philadelphia Library shall ever be used or expended in providing refreshments, lunches, (so-called,) banquets, entertainments, or for the benefit of managers, shareholders, or for any other persons whatsoever.

"Fifth—I do not wish that any work should be excluded from the library on account of its difference from the ordinary or conventional mode of treating subjects of science, government, theology, morals, or medicine; provided it contains neither fibaldry nor indecency. Temperate, sincere and intelligent inquiry and discussion are only to be dreaded by the advocates of error. The truth need not fear them; nor do I wish the Ridgway branch of the Philadelphia Library to be incumbered with the ephemeral biographies, novels, and trashy literature of the day, or newspapers or periodicals, which form so large a part of the current literature of the day. The great object of a public library is to bring within the reach of the public and students, books of a permanent character, the rich and choicest contents of which, in no other way could be accessible to the public. Its excellence will depend, not on the number of its volumes, but upon their intrinsic value. This, I hope, will always be carried out by the managers, who, I hope, will never be influenced by the too common ambition for mere numerical superiority.

"Sixth—I bequeath all my pictures, my private library, my manuscripts, copyrights, and papers, and also those of my father, Dr. BENJAMIN RUSH, to the Library Company."

In the second codicil the testator says:

"I have observed that large annual incomes in corporative bodies almost invariably lead to wasteful extravagance, and cause the institutions to become the prey of schemes, and of the worst kind of public rascality, or of being what is called public-spirited enterprise, have no hesitation in spending the money of other people, in order to gratify their own vanity, or to procure some other equally selfish object; such persons waste of their time in the distraction of charges from one place of popular importance to another that they have no opportunity for observation and reflection, to gain intellect enough to comprehend the extent of the limits of knowledge, and therefore can be of no service, but rather the means of disturbing the quiet dullness of a public library. Let them find instruction in its volumes and amusement and thankfulness. Yet because of admitting them into even a part of its government, or they will be sure, unless the managers are wise and watchful, by some manœuvre to direct the whole machinery, are immediately in their hands, who under the plea of patriotic improvement, and exhausting a city, multiply Government taxes and embarrass the funds of scientific, literary and charitable, as well as other institutions of every kind, by popular action, they have gained control. As a condition, therefore, of my will, let the managers and directors of the Library Company, be chosen from the direction of the Library Company. It is from the quiet, unpretentious and disinterested of its directors and of their management that I have drawn the conclusion which induced me to choose the Philadelphia Library Company as the heir to my estate, and I would add a very influential consideration, that having always conducted its affairs with prudence and economy, it has been able, from its limited means, to collect more books than it has room for, been brought to the disgraceful condition of those institutions which are constantly begging for thousands, and drawing from the public purse by public taxation, in order to erect splendid buildings, or to pay debts rashly and inconsiderately incurred.

I know that an extensive library, to keep up with the progress of collecting the rarest and choicest books, may be like an avaricious man, who accumulated money to the ruin of both his bodcsy and his intellect; but I have a forlorn hope that the mind of the managers may be beyond a patronage, or even a toleration of those crowds of graver, or more puerile fictionists who mislead the will, and of those gambling compilers who overlook or corrupt the truth of fuller and more useful works, by putting their trash or pages, in attempting to abbreviate and render them popular, to their own advantage.

I desire to express still more emphatically than I have yet done my wish and direction that the Library Company shall never make any effort to rival the other libraries of America or of Europe, in the mere number of volumes they contain. If the amount of books in the Philadelphia Library be simply recorded in its catalogue, it will be sufficient for every useful purpose; and, whatever its numbers may be, it need not be held in the gloom of discontent at its inferiority to other, nor in a jubilating exultation at its superiority above them. Let it rest in modest contentment in the useful quality of its volumes, for the benefit, not the amusement alone, of the people; and let it, in its turn, ambitiously scorn the idea of inferior printed paper, flap its flimsy leaves and crow out the highest numbers of worthless books. Let it be a favor for the eminent works of fiction to be thrown into shelves, but let it not be crowded with seats for time-wasting and lounging readers; nor places for every-day novels, mind-tainting reviews, controversial politics, scribblings of poetry and press, biographies of unknown names, nor for those teachers of disjointed thinking, the daily newspapers, except, perhaps, for reference to support, since such an authority could never prove the authentic date of the event, the shows, for the hasty, ephemeral day of the intrinsic value of additions to their shelves, for I hope (yet fearfully) that the stream flowing into the library should be clear, pure and deep, diffusing healthy, truthful and valuable information throughout the community, and not to be overborne by a common flood of contemporary literature, that may sweep off the first foundations of all literature, and leave no bright placeof a mental intellect to rest upon, so as to lend its bounties and be secure.

To assist in accomplishing the purposes of reflection alone declared in the preceding extracts, I direct the management, if they can be found, at least one or two persons of general knowledge, men of more than common college and high school education, with broad discretion, reflection and learning, and not the mere mechanics and men of the professions, nor to the gains of trade and speculation, but those who have been called 'man of good choice,' and who may have wider views of general selection than may be commonly taken by the conventional and popular character of most public benefactors; recollecting not only there is safety in the multitude and agreement of counsels, but that wisdom, too, should there be found, which will insure safety in giving the broadest intellect with its widest compass, the opportunity to enlighten, to caution, and to extend the capacity of those whose occasions or modes of direction may have prevented their thinking it necessary to go beyond the self-satisfied character of a majority.

This is the most magnificent public bequest made in Philadelphia since that of STEPHEN GIRARD, and it is expected that its practical advantages to the community will be nearly as great. Many years ago Dr. RUSH wrote a work on the human voice, which is still recognized as an authority in Europe as well as in this country. He has also indulged in lighter efforts, poetical as well as prose, all of which showed learning, refinement and culture. But he avoided notoriety, and the few writings were privately printed in small editions, for his particular friends. Provision is made in the will for printing new editions of his writings whenever there may be a demand of them, to be sold at the cost of publication. Dr. RUSH was a son of Dr. BENJAMIN RUSH, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, and a brother of the late RICHARD RUSH, Minister, at one time, to Great Britain.

Heavy Damages Awarded in a Railway Suit.

From the Milwaukee (Wis.) Sentinel, May 28.

The case of DON A. CURTISS and wife, of Wauwatosa, against the Detroit and Milwaukee Railway, after having occupied the attention of the Circuit Court for some days, resulted in a verdict for the plaintiffs, awarding them $5,000. The suit was brought for injuries received by Mrs. CURTISS, through the alleged negligence of the defendants. From the evidence, it appears that the trains failed to connect at the junction of the Grand Trunk and Detroit and Milwaukee Railways, toward evening on the 19th of October, 1868, whereby the passengers—among them the plaintiffs—were delayed. The Detroit train finally arrived, about an hour behind time, and, while the several agents were hurrying to get on, it started suddenly, without warning, it is claimed, and threw Mrs. CURTISS and her infant off, the former falling in such a manner that the cars passed over her body, crushing her. She was so badly that it was found necessary to amputate them. A suit for damages was instituted, and tried some two years ago in the County Court of this county, which resulted in a verdict for the plaintiffs in the amount of $5,000. The case was then taken to the Supreme Court, where the decision was reversed on the ground of error in the Judge's charge to the jury. On its return for a new trial the case was transferred from the County to the Circuit Court.

Mr. Washburne's Successor in Congress.

From the Galena (Ill.) Gazette, May 28.

HON. HORATIO C. BURCHARD, of Freeport, who was nominated at the Freeport Convention to succeed Hon. E. B. WASHBURNE in Congress, is a native of the State of New-York, and is about 40 years of age. When a young man he emigrated to the Northwest, and has been a resident of Freeport for many years. He is a lawyer by profession, and is also interested in the hardware trade in Freeport in partnership with his brother. A gentleman of fine education and natural ability, he has taken a leading position at the Stephenson County Bar. In his younger days he was School Commissioner of Stephenson County, was elected to the State Legislature in 1860, unanimously renominated and reflected in 1862, but declined to be a candidate in 1866. As a Representative in the Legislature, Mr. BURCHARD earned an excellent reputation as a man of ability and incorruptible integrity, voting steadily and persistently against every scheme of corruption and ring legislation. During the late exciting contest for Congress, when every objection that could be urged against the various candidates was brought to light, not a stain could be found upon Mr. BURCHARD's public record.

ROBBERIES BY POLICEMEN.

Two of the Jersey City Police Force Charged with Highway Robbery—Investigation before the Police Commissioners.

An investigation was held Monday night at the Jersey City Police Office, before Commissioners EPH FRAY, President, MAJOR CLARKE, and Messrs. HOYT and MORES, into charges preferred by the proprietors of the Evening Journal against Officers JEFF. COLLINS and CHARLES KLING for having committed a highway robbery on a drunken man, at the same time brutally assaulting him, and COLLINS with having atrociously assaulted some people at the Jersey City Ferry. Hon. LEON ABBOT and Captain A. S. CLARKE appeared for the prisoners, and by resolution of the Board Major PANGBORN, of the Journal, was permitted to conduct the case for the prosecution. The President having read the charges, both officers pleaded not guilty.

Mary Ann Pangborn was first sworn, and stated that the articles in his paper, in reference to the charges against the accused, were written on information supplied by one of his partners, Captain Dunning, and by his reporter, Mr. Stivers.

James Halligan, keeper of a stand in Washington Market, New-York, swore that on the night of the 15th ult., (Saturday,) he was partly intoxicated in Grove-street, near South Second-street, Jersey City, and was carried by a friend to his home, close by; in the morning he thought he had lost about $25, and told his brother-fireman in Engine-house No. 4 of this circumstance; he believed that was how the rumor originated that a man had been robbed by Police officers of $25; on going home, however, subsequently, he found his wife had taken the money from his pocket.

Major PANGBORN here remarked that the robbery took place not on Saturday, but Sunday night, and at a place, not where the witness was found, but at the corner of Bright and Grand, over half a mile distant.

Owen Drum swore he found Halligan intoxicated on Saturday night, the 15th, and carried him home.

Officer Charles Mahon testified as follows: On Monday morning, the 17th of this month, as I was going home after roll, Officer KLING came to me at the railroad crossing in Newark-avenue and says: Charley, can you keep a secret? says I, yes; says he, well, there was a man lying on my beat last night drunk and I tried to wake him and could not; I went over to Jeff. (Officer Collins) and told Jeff. that such was the case; Jeff. says to me, what has he got; says I, by George I did not think of that; we went back and we went through him, and he had $21 in bills; he had some five-cent pieces in his pocket, and some tobacco, but we left those in and did not touch them.

On cross-examination by Mr. Abbot, witness said that he and KLING had at one time been charged with intoxication while on the Jersey City Ferry force. As to whether they tried to play jokes on one another once in a while he could not be positive, because the jokes might be true. He was a Republican, while Collins was a Democrat; he believed the Journal was also Republican.

Ex-Detective Edward L. McWilliams testified that Mahon had come to him and told what KLING had been saying; on receiving this information he took what action he considered necessary.

John B. Ward, a Police officer, swore that he conveyed the prisoners to the County Jail; one of them offered a number of pressents if he and the other officer could manage to forget their evidence.

Officers KLING and COLLINS were examined and gave their versions of the affair; and after remarks by the counsel employed in the case, the Commissioners adjourned until Monday next.

OUTBREAK OF BARBARISM.

Stacked Lime Used as a Weapon in an Affray—A Woman Cruelly Assaulted.

ADAM EISENHOVER, a cartman, residing at No. 228 Fifth-street, was arraigned yesterday before Justice MANSFIELD, at the Essex Market Police Court, upon a charge of assault that is based upon alleged circumstances of unparalleled brutality. It was stated in the affidavit made in behalf of CAROLINE SCHUMANN, a resident of the same house, that on the 20th of May last, united by a trivial dispute, EISENHOVER emptied upon her a pail which was filled with a mixture of slacked lime and copperas, which, taking effect upon her head and face, had the effect of almost destroying her sight and burning the skin from her face. She was, of course, prostrated with her injuries, and her life was for a time in jeopardy, but she has now so far recovered that she appeared in Court yesterday to make the complaint against her assailant, who was arrested at the time of the outrage, and who, being arraigned, admitted that he had thrown the slacked lime upon her, but denied that it contained any copperas. His own modified crime was sufficient to insure his committal, in default of $1,000 bail, for trial at the General Sessions.

Complications in our Export Regulations.

A singular question has recently been brought to the notice of the Treasury Department in connection with the export regulations. It appears that the Government requires that a certificate be signed by the chief revenue officer of a port to which merchandise is shipped, in order that the bonds may be canceled by revenue officers, and the exporters relieved from the payment of the Government tax. At several of those ports in the West Indies and South America to which large quantities of tobacco are shipped, these officers refuse to sign the certificates of the merchants, showing that the property has been landed. At Curacoa the officer says the laws of Holland prohibited him from signing the bonds; while at Cienfuegos and other Spanish ports the officers refuse to sign the necessary documents because they do not understand English. They say they cannot afford to employ an interpreter, and the certificates remain unsigned. In the meantime many of our merchants are much embarrassed by the stringent provisions of the law. There is no doubt on the part of the revenue officers that the goods have been landed properly, but at the same time their bondsmen are held responsible for the payment of the tax.

The matter has been laid before the Internal Revenue Department at Washington, with a request that the regulations be modified in this respect.

The Assault on Superintendent Kennedy.—No Motive for the Attack—Trial and Conviction of the Assailant.

THOMAS NAUGHTON, the Ex-Policeman who committed an assault on Superintendent KENNEDY at his office, Police Headquarters, on Saturday morning last, was arraigned at the Special Sessions, Justice KELLY presiding, yesterday morning.

Mr. KENNEDY being sworn, related the circumstances of the assault, as published in the TIMES the next day. He was sitting in his private office about 8 o'clock in the morning, when Officer WEBB entered and informed him that there was a man waiting outside who wished to see him on business. The officer was directed to show him in, and as the man entered the room Mr. KENNEDY rose and advanced toward him, when suddenly the man drew from his coat-sleeve a club and aimed a blow at the Superintendent's head. The Superintendent dodged the blow and it fell upon his shoulder. Officer WEBB immediately rushed into the room and took the man into custody. Mr. KENNEDY said he did not speak one word to the man before the attack, and had never noticed or reprimanded him. The Superintendent corroborated by Officer WEBB, and evidence was adduced to show that the prisoner had formerly been a member of the Metropolitan Police, and was discharged for drunkenness.

The prisoner NAUGHTON being called on for an explanation of his conduct, said he did not know why he committed the assault; indeed he did not know anything about it until he found himself in the lock-up. He had been drinking freely the night before. He had no animosity against Mr. KENNEDY whatever, and had no motive for assaulting him.

Justice KELLY sentenced the prisoner to six months in the Penitentiary.

CORONERS' CASES.

A Case of Deliberate Infanticide—Condition of Mrs. Barnes—Death of a Prisoner in the Tombs—Miscellaneous Cases.

Yesterday morning, at an early hour, one of the Whitehall boatmen while rowing on the East River picked up a sack, and on opening it discovered the body of an infant. Officer HART, of the First Precinct, was duly notified and communicated the facts to Coroner ROLLINS. The remains were subsequently removed to the Morgue where the Coroner held an inquest. The medical examination of the remains showed conclusively that the deceased was alive before being placed in the sack, and a verdict of infanticide was rendered against some person as yet unknown to the jury.

The corpus delicti of Mrs. MARGARET BARNES, the woman who was thrown from a window by her husband, was yesterday obtained by Coroner ROLLINS. Mrs. BARNES stated, in substance, that her husband attempted to take some money from her, when she resisted, and made him angry; the quarrel continued for some time, when, as she stood at a rear window, MICHAEL came up and pushed her into the yard. The jury rendered a verdict against the husband, and he was committed by the Coroner to the Tombs to await the result of his wife's injuries. In her statement, Mrs. BARNES expressed the belief that she will not recover, but the Hospital surgeons have hopes to the contrary, although their patient is yet in a very critical condition.

WM. POOL, an Englishman, was arraigned yesterday morning before Justice HOGAN, at the Tombs Police Court, on a charge of intoxication. He was accordingly committed for ten days, and remanded to the "guard-house" in the City Prison. While awaiting transportation to Blackwell's Island, POOL suddenly swooned, and was quite dead when raised up by the other prisoners. Dr. ANDERSON, one of the prison physicians, examined the remains, and expressed the opinion that death had resulted from heart disease, and a post-mortem examination confirmed the physician's opinion.

Coroner KENNAN held an inquest yesterday over the remains of HENRY ECKENROTH, the German who killed himself at No. 192 Attorney-street, on Monday night, as previously reported. The wife of the misguided man testified that HENRY had been grossly intoxicated for several days, so the jury rendered a verdict of suicide while temporarily insane.

Coroner KENNAN also convened yesterday to obtain the ante-mortem deposition of JOHN MIERS, the German who was shot on Pier No. 48 East River, on Monday night, by Private Watchman CHARLES FRESER. The wounded man was, however, unable to make any statement. The Coroner then adjourned the proceed, as the officer who heard the assailant confess to shooting MIERS, was not present. The patient is in an extremely critical condition.

THE HENDERSON-BUTLER CASE.

The Accused Appears Voluntarily and Enters Bail.

We mentioned yesterday that Mr. ALEXANDER HENDERSON had made a complaint against Mr. GEORGE H. BUTLER, dramatic critic of Wilkes' Spirit of the Times, charging him with libel in consequence of an article severely reflecting upon HENDERSON, and published in the Spirit on the 22d of May last, and said to have been written by BUTLER. The complaint made merely embodies the offensive article in full, and charging that it is false, scandalous and libelous, prays that BUTLER may be arrested and dealt with according to law.

In consequence of this complaint, Justice LEDWITH, sitting at the Jefferson Market Police Court, issued a warrant Tuesday afternoon for the apprehension of BUTLER; but the officer holding the document failed to find Mr. BUTLER, who was then secreted from a night's incarceration in a cell. At about 10 o'clock yesterday morning Mr. BUTLER voluntarily appeared before Justice LEDWITH at the Police Court, and, waiving an examination, gave bail in the sum of $1,000 for his appearance for trial at the General Sessions.

He was also confronted with a charge of assault and battery made by Mr. HENDERSON, in which the complainant deposes that he was assaulted and beaten by GEORGE H. BUTLER, who struck deponent two violent blows in the face, blacking deponent's eyes, without any justification upon the part of said assailant. The exact number of blows given during the difficulty at Niblo's Garden, together with their effects, being thus judicially established by the oath of the chief party in interest, the same course was pursued as in the other cases and BUTLER gave bonds in the sum of $300 to answer in the Court of General Sessions.

The New Clipper Building.

The new Clipper Building, which is just completed, and stands at the corner of Centre and Leonard streets, is a decided addition to the many magnificent structures which adorn this metropolis. It is built in the modern French style of architecture, four stories in height, with a Mansard roof, which is admirably adapted for the purpose of a composing room, where space and light are indispensable. On the ground floor are two large, lofty and handsome stores, while the second floor is devoted to the business of publication, and contains the editorial, composing and reportorial rooms, with all the modern improvements and conveniences. The third and fourth floors each contain five rooms; above is the Mansard, or composition room, twenty feet in height, and the dome, covering the whole, which contains the exact measure of the three rooms, surmounts the whole. The entire building is fifty-seven by forty feet, and eighty feet in height. The front is built of the superior Ohio stone called Berea; the windows are of imported French glass, with panes sixteen feet square, and the front of the building is to be ornamented with a magnificent illuminated dial three feet in diameter, with another dial on the sidewalk in front of the entrance hall. The works will be placed in a glass room, constructed especially in the basement, so as to be open to public inspection; from thence the shaft will communicate its action to the two dials above. The cost of the entire building is about $140,000, and except the Ledger, is the only weekly newspaper that has erected an edifice for individual occupation.

Unsafe Buildings—Reports and Subsequent Action.

From the report of Mr. JAMES M. MACGREGOR, Superintendent of Buildings, to the Board of Fire Underwriters, for the month of May, it appears that of the buildings under the action of his department at the date of his last monthly report, twenty-five have been disposed of. Of this number twenty-three have been ordered to be made safe and two to be taken down. Of buildings reported unsafe prior to May 1, thirty-five remain undisposed of. During the month of May fifty-six buildings have been reported as unsafe. Of this number eight have been ordered to be made safe and one to be taken down. There have also been held during the month eight surveys, the result of which were that five buildings were ordered to be repaired, three taken down and one was found to be not unsafe as used at present.

A River Thief.

Officer St. JOHN, of the First Precinct Police, found JOHN MURPHY, a boatman, aged 19, and a native of Canada, in a row-boat, at the suspicious hour of 3 A. M. on Wednesday morning, in one of the slips near South Ferry. As MURPHY had the boat filled with a quantity of rope the officer arrested him, subsequently ascertaining that the boat belonged to Mr. JOHN CUSICK, of No. 340 West-street, who stated that he valued the property at $60, and had lost it on the 30th ult. The rope was also found to have been stolen from the possession of the Delaware and Lackawanna Railroad Company, being fully identified by JACOB MORRELL, of No. 26 Exchange-place. The prisoner was arraigned yesterday before Justice HOGAN, who committed him for trial.

A Treacherous Friend.

WALTER COHEN, residing at No. 474 Seventh-avenue, made a complaint yesterday before Justice LEDWITH at the Jefferson Market Police Court, alleging that Sunday night HENRY WEBB took him to a room in a hotel, which is not named, and when there took his watch and chain, worth $200, from his vest pocket, under pretense of laying them upon the table, instead of which he immediately left the room taking the articles with him. Subsequently, the complaint states, WEBB was arrested by Detectives YOUNG and HERBERD, of the Eighteenth Precinct, who found the property upon his person. In consequence of these averments WEBB was committed in default of $1,000 bail for trial at the General Sessions.

The West Side Elevated Railway.

The Commissioners of the West Side Elevated Railway give notice that they will meet every Saturday, at noon, at No. 110 Broadway, for the purpose of hearing objections by persons living along the line of the road, against the manner of its erection. It is the duty of the Commissioners to certify to the safety of the road, and suggestions on the subject are invited by them.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT—SOUTHERN DISTRICT.

Before Judge Blatchford.

REFUSAL TO SHOW VESSEL'S PAPERS.

The United States vs. The Canal-boat John J. Wilkie.—This was a libel of information against the boat under the thirteenth section of the act of Feb. 18, 1793, (1 Stats. at Large, 305,) because the master of her did on demand exhibit an enrolment or license to the Custom-house officers. It was admitted in the case that the boat was not enrolled or licensed, and had no papers to exhibit.

Held by the Court—That the section in question applies only to cases where the enrollment or license has been in fact taken out and the master fails to exhibit it. That the penalties for trading with a vessel which has not been enrolled or licensed are provided for by another section, but there are no allegations in the information founded on any violation of that section. Information dismissed.

For the United States, District-Attorney Pierrepont; for claimant, O. Fribbie.

DELIVERY OF CARGO—PLEADING.

Adolph Busch et al. vs. The Steamship Fille de Paris.—This was a libel to recover $1,300 as the value of a case of silks brought by the steamer from Havre to this port under a bill of lading, in which the libelants were named as consignees. The libel did not allege that the libelants were the owners of the goods, and the answer took no exception to it on that ground, and did not allege that they were not owners, but set up as a defence that the case was delivered to the libelants, as to a consignee, by the Customs-house officers, in lieu of delivering the vessel from her liability under the bill of lading. Decree for libelants, with costs.

For the libelants, H. H. Anderson and T. M. Adams; for claimants, C. Donohue and W. L. Livingston.

TOWAGE AND SALVAGE.

The Coast Wrecking Company vs. The brig Birdie.—This was a libel to recover compensation for services rendered by the libelants, owners of the steamer, in assisting in getting off the brig, which was ashore on Long Island, and bringing her to New-York. It appeared that the libelants heard by a telegraph of their own from the coast that the brig was ashore. They accordingly sealed the fast from every one, but the Relief being at Fire Island, some fifteen miles from where the brig was ashore, they employed another tug to take their passengers and tow them to the brig. The Relief then got the brig off and brought her to New-York, occupying sixteen hours in so doing.

Held by the Court—That they recover $300, being at the rate of $25 for the sixteen hours. That the conduct of the Superintendent in concealing his knowledge of the situation of the brig was reprehensible. That as the libelants claimed no particular sum, and as the amount allowed is anything ought to be paid, costs cannot be withheld.

For libelants, C. A. Hand; for claimant, G. M. Spratt.

Jos. Clough et al. vs. The brig Birdie.—This was a libel for salvage filed by the owner of the tug William Fletcher, which was employed by the Superintendent of the Coast Wrecking Company to go down to the brig, as stated in the preceding case.

Decree for the libelant for $225, being at the rate of $12 per hour, with costs.

For libelants, Beebe, Donohue & Cooke; for claimants, G. M. Spratt.

IMPORTANT DECISION IN BANKRUPTCY.

Joseph W. Sprague et al. vs. Isidor Rosenthal et al.—This was a trial before a jury in a proceeding in involuntary bankruptcy. The only act of bankruptcy alleged or proved was the assignment of the property by the defendants, for the benefit of all their creditors without any preference.

Judge BLATCHFORD held that the making of such an assignment was an act of bankruptcy, and directed a verdict in favor of the creditors.

For the creditors Mr. Smith, for debtors Mr. Courtney.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT—EASTERN DISTRICT.

INFORMER'S SHARES.

The United States vs. Frederick Chassell.—BENEDICT, J.—This cause comes before the Court upon a motion for the distribution of a fund in the Registry, arising from a fine imposed upon the defendant, Frederick Chassell. The proceeding against Chassell was a criminal prosecution upon an indictment found against him for carrying on the business of a retail liquor dealer without having paid the special tax required by law, upon which indictment he was tried and convicted and a fine imposed by the Court, which was paid, constituting the fund in question. One-half of this fund is now claimed by Brewster Wood as informer. In support of his claim Wood has produced a certificate of the District-Attorney to the effect that he is the person who first informed of the cause, matter and thing, which gave the arrest and conviction of the defendant in the above-entitled cause was procured; to which he has added his own oath, showing that he first informed the District-Attorney of the false entry upon which the prosecution was based, and also that he has no knowledge or information that any other claim was made by any other person, to have first informed of such matters and things. On the part of the Government it is contended that the written admission of Wood that he obtained the information which he imparted to the District-Attorney while in the discharge of his official duty as Assistant Assessor of Internal Revenue, and the information must be imparted with the intention of having it so acted upon. It must be the first information to the party. These restrictions can be fairly gathered from the words of the act, and I am unable to see that any other limitations can be reasonably inferred from anything in the act contained. According to the construction of the law, it clearly appears that the present petitioner is entitled to a distributive share in the fine in question, for it appears that, of his own motion, and by his own diligence, he communicated information which, being acted on by the proper officer, led to the conviction of the offender. This information he imparted to the District-Attorney, who, and who alone, was authorized to institute the proceedings which resulted in the imposition of the fine, and he so imparted his information with the intent that such proceeding should be instituted sans de information, and he was the first informant in regard to the matter. These facts, unexplained, may imply that he intended to be informed, but they do not imply that he intended to be informed in the manner in which he has actually given information to the District-Attorney. The fact, however, that he intended to be informed, and that he actually gave information to the District-Attorney, is sufficient to entitle him to be adjudged to be the legal informant entitled to a distributive share of the fund in court. In the disposing of the case I have not thought it necessary to consider the question whether, under the present law, (Title United States Revised Statutes, 3447,) distilled spirits in Internal Rev. R. 52) United States or Rum Cutting Machines in Int. R. Rec., p. 146.) But I find nothing in the actual adjudications of these cases upon the facts of these cases as I understand them, which leads me to a different conclusion from that to which I have arrived in this case.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT—SOUTHERN DISTRICT.

Before Judge Benedict.

EXTORTION.

The United States vs. David Lichtenheim.—The trial of this case was begun yesterday. The defendant is indicted for unlawfully demanding and accepting money for the compromise and settlement of a charge for an alleged violation of the Internal Revenue laws. The charge referred to was a charge of selling counterfeit cigar stamps made against one Hoyt in April, 1867. Lichtenheim, the defendant in this case, then an Inspector of Internal Revenue, is charged with having demanded and received, the sum of $100, and 20,000 cigars, of the value of $600, as his compensation for bringing about a settlement. On the preliminary examination, before a United States Commissioner, the evidence was given at great length, and the evidence upon the trial thus far is substantially the same.

For the United States, B. B. Phelps; for defendant, John Sedgwick.

UNITED STATES COMMISSIONERS' OFFICE—JUNE 1.

Before Commissioner Betts.

THE CLAIM AGAINST FRAUDS.

The examination in the case of J. Nelson Luckey, a claim agent, charged with fraud and forgery, was continued to-day. Dudley S. Phelps, Assistant District-Attorney, appeared for the Government, Nicholas Thompson, a sailor on the United States gunboat Acacia, at the time she captured the Confederate ship Jules in Charleston Harbor in 1862, was examined, and testified that he put in his claim to the Government through the agent Luckey. His claim amounted to $600, but all he received from Luckey was $400. Papers were introduced from the Auditor's Office at Washington, showing that Luckey received from the Government the full amount of his claim. On the back of the check for that amount the name of Thompson was indorsed as having been signed by a "mark." This signature Thompson testified was a forgery, and it was proved that on the same day he signed his full name, Thompson, to other papers relating to the claim. With this evidence the prosecution closed the case, and the further hearing on the part of the defence was adjourned to June 6.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS—JUNE 1.

Before Judge Cardozo.

AN EX-CONDUCTOR ON THE ERIE RAILWAY CHARGED WITH BEING INDEBTED TO THE COMPANY IN A LARGE SUM.

The Erie Railway Company vs. Albert S. Cobb.—This case came before the Court to-day, on a motion made by the defendant to change the place of trial from the City of New-York to one of the extreme western counties of this State, on the ground of the convenience of witnesses. The defendant, in opposing for the purpose of recovering from Mr. Cobb the sum of about $25,000, which amount the Company say is due to them from the defendant, Cobb, for funds of theirs which he has collected and failed to account for, for fourteen or fifteen years that he was a conductor in their employ.

The answer denies all indebtedness to the Company, or misappropriation of any funds, and, in a voluminous affidavit, the defendant sets forth that on the trial of the action he can produce a large number of witnesses, residing in the extreme western part of this State, who will be able to testify to that which is material in the answer. For their convenience he asks that the place of trial be removed from this City to Chautauqua County.

In contest for the plaintiffs claim that the number of the defendant's witnesses sworn to is 142; that it is not possible that such a large number can be necessary in any case; that the defendant has willingness to stipulate to pay the expenses of all necessary witnesses of defendant, from their place of residence to New-York, and return, provided the place of trial is changed hence to Chautauqua County; that the plaintiffs' counsel that if the place of trial were removed to the county designated by the defendant, there would be no such thing as justice done to the plaintiffs, from the fact that they have no influence of the defendant throughout all that region.

After argument the Court took the papers. Decision reserved.

For the plaintiffs, Messrs. Field and Sherman; for the defendant, Mr. W. A. Burden.

COMMON PLEAS—SPECIAL TERM.

Before Judge Brady.

WILL AN APPEAL LIE FROM A PART OF A JUDGMENT?—ACTION FOR DIVORCE.

Green vs. Green.—This action was brought by the plaintiff against the defendant for a limited divorce. After the issue was joined an allowance of $250 was granted to the plaintiff's attorney, on motion made to the Court. When the case was nearly reached for trial, the defendant wrote to the plaintiff a letter stating certain conditions on which the case could be settled. On this letter a motion was made for a discontinuance of the action. The motion was opposed, and upon the argument the plaintiff's attorney insisted that he was entitled to an additional counsel fee.

On this point the Court decided that no decree was entered, which directed, among other things, that the defendant pay to the plaintiff's attorney the further sum of $750, and that an execution should issue for the enforcement of the payment of that part of the judgment directing the payment of this sum.

The case now came before the Court upon the plaintiff's motion for an order to set aside the execution upon the ground that the judgment was not appealable, and even if appealable, that an appeal will not lie from a part of the judgment. In opposition to this it was urged that the decree of allowance affected a substantial right, and is appealable, and this Court so decided in the case of Leslie vs. Leslie; also that an appeal would lie from a part of the judgment, the part which was appealed, but to compel an appeal from the whole judgment would be to insist upon the defendant taking, against his wishes, the position of claiming the whole judgment to be erroneous.

After argument the Court took the papers and reserved its decision.

Edward Fitch for plaintiff; A. H. Seavey for defendant.

FIRE—The demand has been on a restricted scale, and prices have been quoted rather less firm.

FLOUR AND MEAL—State and Western Flour has attracted less attention to-day, and has been quoted of a shade easier. Some expert inquiry has been noted for the low grades, chiefly of State, but the bids were not satisfactory to sellers, and no important negotiations were completed. State brands were in large supply. Western brands, however, were plenty, and, in some instances, pressed for sale. Sales have been reported since our last for Ohio, in lots, including very inferior to choice family, at $7 [illegible] for Extra State at $5 [illegible] 50 for choice extra State, $5 [illegible] for Extra Ohio, $5 [illegible] 50 for good shipping brands, and $5 [illegible] 75 and $6 [illegible] for good to choice extra Ohio. Rye Flour is dull and nominally unchanged. Corn Meal is dull and heavy; sales have been reported since our last of 270 bbls. at $4 [illegible] for very poor to fair ordinary, and at $4 [illegible] for fair ordinary to very superior Extra. ✓ bbl. California Flour is in moderate request at $7 [illegible] 75 for Extra ✓ 196 lbs. Rye Meal, 200 bbls. and sacks. Rye Flour is in request at $4 [illegible] 50 for very inferior to very choice. ✓ bbl. Corn Meal, 200 bbls. Cornmeal is in fair demand at $4 [illegible] 50 for Western, $4 [illegible] in for Jersey, and $4 [illegible] 6 for Brandywine. ✓ bbl.; sales, 600 bbls.

GRAIN—Wheat has been more actively sought after since our last, chiefly trying for forward delivery, which opened at a point higher prices, but closed in favor of purchasers. The main call was from the west buyers. Sales have been reported, since our last of 192,000 bushels, including Amber Canada, from at $1 [illegible]; White Western, in part at $1 [illegible]; Red and Amber Western at $1 [illegible]; Ia.; No. 1 Spring at $1 [illegible]; No. 2 Spring at $1 [illegible], chiefly to arrive; and White California at $1 [illegible] ✓ bushel. Corn has been fairly cleared off, and has been in more demand at firmer rates. Sales have been reported of 69,000 bushels at 84c. [illegible] for new Mixed Western, received by canal; 85c. [illegible] for do., received by rail, the latter for very choice; 86c. [illegible] for Yellow Western, and 86c. [illegible] for Kiln-dried ✓ bushel. Nothing really in Rye, Barley or Malt. Oats have been quoted a shade lower, and have been less request; sales have been reported since our last of 1,000 bushels Western at 77c., afloat, ✓ bushel. The export clearances included 670 bbls. Flour and 60,411 bushels Wheat for Liverpool, and 34,000 bushels Wheat for Cork and orders.

HAY—Rain Hay has been in request and steady at from 85c. [illegible] for shipping, and 95c. [illegible] 25 for Prime to Choice, for local use. ✓ 100 lbs. Straw continues salable at 70c. [illegible] 80, 10 for Long and Short. ✓ 100 lbs.

HOPS—Have been moderately sought after, including American at 5c. [illegible] for New, and 20. [illegible] for Old ✓ lb. We quote in detail thus: New-York State, 5c. [illegible] 8c.; Eastern, 5. [illegible] 8c.; Western, 5. [illegible] 8c.; Michigan, 5. [illegible] 8c.; Yearlings, all grades, 20. [illegible] ✓ lb. The receipts were 307 bales; export clearances, 50 bales.

HIDES—Have been quiet at previous quotations.

LEATHER—Sole has been in good request and buoyant in price.

METALS—The dealings in Copper, Iron, Lead, Spelter and Tin have been on a very limited scale at essentially unchanged prices. In Pig Tin a fair business has been transacted in amount, and prices have been weak, though not quotably altered. Of Plate Tin we hear of sales, which is a good beginning for the new month. The circumstance is accepted by the trade as an indication that the large receivers will henceforward enable our indefatigable friends who report the produce receipts to make regular and reliable reports of the arrivals of oil, thus placing within reach of legitimate dealers trustworthy information as to the extent of the current receipts and available supplies at this point. At Philadelphia, the regular of Crude were 50 bbls. The export clearances were 170,[illegible] gallons by the bark Idea, for Genoa; 30,000 gallons by the brig Star, for Malaga. Refined Oil has been more urgently sought after, and buyers have advanced their limits fully 1c. ✓ gallon, but holders claim even higher rates, and show very little disposition to sell unless at full asking figures. At the close, the bids for Standard White here were 20c., and the more specially fancy brands were 20½c. ✓ gallon. Sales were reported of 14,000 bbls. including some 4,500 bbls. Standard White, for transit or delivery, at 20c. [illegible]; 1,000 bbls. do. for June, various shipments, at 20½c. [illegible]; 2,000 bbls. do. for last half of July delivery, on private terms, and 2,000 bbls. do. August and September delivery, 11,000 bbls. each month, at 21½c. ✓ gallon. Also at Philadelphia, 17,500 bbls. including 5,000 bbls. Standard White, first half of June delivery, part at 20½c. [illegible]; part quoted a fraction higher; 1,000 bbls. do., last half of June delivery, at 20½c. [illegible]; 1,000 bbls. do. last half of July delivery, at 20c. [illegible]; closing with 20½c. bid; and 7,000 bbls. do. August and September delivery, 10,000 bbls. each month, at 21½c., closing with 21½c. bid ✓ gallon. The receipts of Refined here were 6,[illegible] bbls., and at Philadelphia, 1,200 bbls. The export clearance were 3,[illegible] bbls. Refined, by the bark Louis for Brenner.

PROVISIONS—Pork has been quiet but without notable change in price. Sales have been reported since our last of 400 bbls., in lots, at $[illegible] 25 closing at $[illegible] 50 for New Mess, $[illegible] 75 for Old Mess, and $[illegible] 50 for Prime. This, against 10,[illegible] bbls. May 1, 1868, and 20,[illegible] bbls. June 1, 1868. Cut Meats have been quiet and at former rates. Sales have been reported of 700 pieces, at 20½c. bids, for Dry salted and Sweet-pickled Shoulders, and 15c. @ 15½c. for Dry-salted and Sweet-pickled Hams. ✓ lb. Lard has been in moderate request and unchanged prices; sales 170 bbls. including Steam Rifle on private terms; Cumberlands at 15½c., and Ice-cured City at 17c. ✓ lb. Tallow has been somewhat sought after at steady rates; sales have been reported since our last of 60,000 pounds, at 9½c. @ 9½c. for No. 1 and 9½c. for choice Kettle-rendered, City, at 10½c. for City, and 10½c. for prime Grease. Also, at Philadelphia, 1,000 bbls. since from July 25 to Aug. 15, at 9½c. ✓ lb. Beef is in moderate demand, from $11 [illegible] for Plain Mess; $12 [illegible] for Extra Mess, and $[illegible] for Extra Prime. Beef Hams are dull at $[illegible] ✓ tierce. Smoked Meats dull and heavy, including Sow Prime Mess at 10½c.; Indian Mess, at 8½c. ✓ lb. Tallow, ✓ tierces and bbls. Beef against 67,[illegible] tierces and bbls. May 1, 1868, and 34,[illegible] tierces and bbls. June 1, 1868. Beef Hams are in demand at 25c. [illegible] ✓ bbl., and 25c. [illegible] ✓ lb. Butter and Cheese continue in very moderate demand at previous figures.

We are indebted to Messrs. J. S. Gans & Son for the following statistics:

WOOL—The movements in Wool during May, Messrs. WILLIAMS, BELKNAP AND RICHING BROTHERS notice thus: "We have no improvement to notice in the state of trade during the past month. The same depressed and unsettled condition which has so long existed in our market still continues. The prices of domestic and pulled Wools is gradually diminishing, as manufacturers have come into the market to obtain a sufficient supply to stock them until the arrival of the new clip. Foreign Wools feel the effect of the poor demand, and are somewhat lower. The general depression, owing to the new clip is that rates will not be materially higher than those ruling at the beginning of last month. Texas and Mexican and California Wools have been in slightly better demand at reduced rates; in the Mexican wols, Caps and Mestins have been rather more sought for, and most of the late arrivals of Caps have disappeared from the market. The recent rise in gold has a tendency to check transactions in foreign wools. Carpet Wools have met with slightly better demand at a lower range of prices. The stocks of nearly all kinds are small, and there is no pressure to large importations. General stagnation in trade continues in the foreign markets. At the London auction sales of Colonial Wools, which commenced on the 6th ult., prices gave way to some extent, and there seems no expectation of any improvement. At the recent Antwerp sales many lots were withdrawn, and rates were from 10@15 ✓ cent. lower. The imports of Wool into New-York for the year 1868, were 25,113 bales, 12,490,139 lbs.; from Jan. 1 to April 24, in 1869, 17,771 bales, 7,466,761 lbs.; for month up to May 29, 5,027 bales, 2,078,039 lbs."

WHISKY—Has been dull and nominal at $1 ✓ gallon. The receipts have been heavy, having amounted to 1,788 bbls.

FREIGHTS—The engagements have been less extensive to-day; rates, however, have been well supported. For Liverpool there were taken, by steamer, 500 bales Cotton, at ¼d. ✓ lb.; 12,000 bushels Corn, at 7½d. ✓ bushel; 200 bales Hay, at 5s. ✓ ton. For Glasgow, 1,000 bbls. Flour, by steamer, at 3s. ✓ bbl. For a port in the United Kingdom, direct, a North German bark with 2,000 quarters Wheat, at 4s. 6d. ✓ quarter; a short sea bark, for the British Channel, a Norwegian bark with 2,500 quarters Wheat, at 4s. 6d. ✓ quarter. For a Continental port direct, an American ship, tonnage, with 5,000 bbls. Petroleum, at 4s. ✓ bbl. For direct Continental ports, a British ship, with 6,000 bbls. Petroleum, from Philadelphia, at 4s. 3d., and an American ship, with 5,000 bbls. do. also from Philadelphia, at 4s. 3d. ✓ bbl. For a Mediterranean port, an American bark, with 2,700 bbls. Petroleum, on private terms.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

EUROPE.

The London journals of yesterday very generally contained comments on Mr. MOTLEY's addresses at Liverpool, on Monday, to the Chambers of Commerce.

It is rumored in Dublin that the Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland, Earl STRZELECKI, is about to resign.

The policy of the Republicans in the Spanish Cortes, it is announced, is not to oppose the final vote on the question of the future form of government, but to refuse to subscribe to the oaths prescribed by the new Constitution.

GENERAL.

The public debt statement, which will be issued to-day, will show, it is reported, a reduction of about $8,000,000.

JOHN N. MOFFITT, commander of the late rebel pirate Florida, has instituted legal proceedings to recover some $10,000 worth of property confiscated in the United States District Court at St. Paul, three years ago, and sold by the United States Marshal for about $6,000.

A delegation of Georgians called on the President, on Monday, and insisted that one of the appointments of Mr. DELANO to an Assessorship in Georgia had been a volunteer in the rebel service, and had been discharged for drunkenness and gross immorality. The President, after an examination of the papers submitted in proof of the statements made, immediately sent for Mr. DELANO, and it is believed that the removal of the Assessor was ordered.

A young girl, 11 years old, named MARY BRAWN, has been arrested in Syracuse charged with poisoning a child and setting fire to a dwelling-house. She had been taken from the Poor-house, against her wishes and put to work in the family of Mr. F. B. EDGERTON. She threatened to poison the children and set fire to the house, but no notice was taken of her threat. She, however, carried it out in part. The child poisoned has been saved, and the fire set was extinguished before much damage was done.

The four oarsmen who are to represent Harvard College in the races with Oxford and Cambridge fours of England, pull down Charles River, at Boston, every evening between 6 and 7 o'clock, stripped to the waist, in a six-oared shell, in which one or two other oarsmen assist them. The day of departure is fixed for July 10, so that the Harvard four will be enabled to practice on the current of the Thames, where the tide rises and falls eighteen feet.

An official statement shows that there has been this year a departure from Canada of about 200 or 300 families by the Grand Trunk for this country, who have no intention to return; and that in addition there has been an excess of usual emigration to the factories and brick-yards of about 2,000 beyond those who usually go every Spring, returning in the Fall with the products of their industry.

Another important poisoning case has just been concluded at Warsaw, Ind., that of Mrs. Dr. SHAFFER for the poisoning of one ISAAC JACKSON, about a year ago, by giving him pie to eat containing strychnine. The woman was arrested soon after the death of JACKSON, together with her husband. He, however, died soon after his arrest. Mrs. SHAFFER was found guilty and sentenced to imprisonment for life. On his death-bed the doctor strongly asserted the innocence of himself and wife.

Heavy bail has been required of CHOATE, the alleged "Newburyport (Mass.) Fire-bug." On each of the indictments pending against him for burning and attempting to burn buildings in Newburyport, in which he is charged with offences punishable by imprisonment for life, the bail required has been fixed at $6,000, and on the others at $2,000 each, making the total $22,000.

General GEORGE H. THOMAS and staff arrived at San Francisco yesterday, after having been seven days and ten hours on the journey from New-York.

The trial of NOAH BIGELOW, in Troy, for the murder of CYNTHIA SHOAR at North Branch, in the town of Callicoon, Rensselaer County, N. Y., has concluded, and the murderer found guilty and sentenced to be hanged on the 15th of July next. He has confessed the crime several times since his confinement. He met the girl in the woods, and, after taking improper liberties with her, fearing she might betray him, he killed her with a walking cane, and threw a heavy log across her head to divert suspicion.

The New-York State Temperance Convention met yesterday at Syracuse and organized. Ex-Governor MYRON H. CLARK was chosen President. The Committee on Resolutions were instructed to report a plan of organization for the temperance voters of the State. GERRIT SMITH made an address on "the Analogies of civil government." The Convention will remain in session two or three days.

The inauguration of Governor STRAHN, of New-Hampshire, will take place to-morrow, as has been stated. Governor CLAFLIN and staff, of Massachusetts, and Governor JEWELL, of Connecticut, have accepted invitations to be present.

The Union Hotel, at Saratoga with new cottages and improvements, opened yesterday.

JOSIAH GOLDTHWAITE, an estimable and wealthy citizen of Northbridge, Mass., was found hung in his barn yesterday morning. He had given no indications of mental disquiet, and many suspect he was made away with by some person to cover up some crime not yet discovered.

The trial of DENNIS REEN, charged with the murder of DENNIS CROWAN in December last, commenced in the Supreme Court at Cambridge, Mass., yesterday. REEN and CROWAN were employed in a pork factory in Charlestown. The latter was decapitated with a meat ax, and suspicion led to REEN's arrest and indictment for the murder.

JAMES E. ROBINS was arrested yesterday forenoon by private detectives at Buffalo, charged with robbing the dead body of FRANK WALKER, a civil engineer, killed at the Angola disaster, eighteen months since, of a gold watch. The watch was recently brought to WALKER's father, a jeweler in Buffalo, for repairs, and was recognized by him. He at once put the case in the hands of detectives, who traced it through six holders to ROBINS, the party now under arrest.

The graves of the Confederate dead at Richmond, Va., will be decorated to-day, with imposing ceremonies. Business will be very generally suspended throughout the city.

The Schuylkill (Penn.) miners, it is reported, will soon resume work. Information has been received at Scranton and Pittston that the Schuylkill operators have declared their readiness to concede whatever the men demand. The Scranton papers state that the chances are that by the time resumption occurs in the other regions the prices will be down to the old figure.

The National Woman's Suffrage Association met yesterday at the Woman's Bureau, No. 49 East Twenty-third-street. Resolutions were adopted against the passage by Congress of the Fifteenth Amendment, and also in favor of allowing girls to enter the College of the City of New-York. Another resolution was adopted regarding the privilege recently accorded to women in the Methodist Church, of voting as to whether lay members should be admitted to the General Conference. The resolution urged that they should also vote for the lay members, and likewise be members of the Conference themselves.

The Old School Presbyterian Assembly, meeting in the Brick Church, corner of Thirty-seventh-street and Fifth-avenue, adjourned yesterday, after sitting eleven days. It will meet again on the 16th of November at Pittsburg.

Mr. WM. B. OGDEN delivered last night a lecture upon the Pacific Railroad, giving its history, and also that of railroad science from its inception.

The car drivers upon the Seventh-avenue Railroad struck yesterday morning for an advance of 50 cents a day upon their wages of $2. The President compromised with them upon $2 25, and somewhat lessened their period of work.

The receipts from internal revenue sources on Monday were erroneously stated in some of the newspapers. The amount was $2,255,000.

Governor HOFFMAN has granted a reprieve for two weeks in the case of MESSNER, who was sentenced to be hanged on Friday next.

THOMAS NAUGHTON, who attempted to assault Superintendent KENNEDY in his office, was convicted in the Court of Special Sessions, yesterday, and was sentenced to the Penitentiary for six months.

In the Henderson-Butler libel and assault cases, Mr. GEO. H. BUTLER voluntarily appeared before Justice LEDWITH, yesterday, and waiving preliminary examination gave bail in each case to answer at the Court of General Sessions.

Cotton was more active and again dearer, yesterday. Breadstuffs were irregular in price with but little movement outside of Wheat and Corn. Provisions quiet. Groceries inactive. Naval Stores dull. Tobacco tamer. Petroleum decidedly firmer and in more demand. Freights moderately active.

The Workingmen's Movements.

Let our workingmen fight it out if they like against the laws of political economy which all the rest of the world have long ago found it useless to oppose. If kept within bounds at all, no great harm, we think, will come of it. But at all events, let them make no more sacrifices about it than necessary. Let them remember that they have an old, well-established good name to maintain. Even Don Quixote, in tilting with windmills, kept up his dignity and sense of personal worth.

Yet really, in looking over the reports of the numerous strikes and "Eight-hours law" meetings, one cannot help asking himself the question—whether our laboring men are losing, not simply their old intelligence, but their old self-respect. It seems that they sit patiently listening by the hour, not only to absurd fallacies about the relation of capital to labor, but to appeals carrying the idea that they have a peculiarly hard lot, and so are entitled to peculiarly generous treatment. These are strains of absolute whining, such as the fathers of these men, so far from indulging in themselves, would have never listened to from others for an instant.

It is high time that our laboring men who are so concerned about what is due to them from others should begin to consider what is due to themselves. All this lamentation and complaint about their condition is unworthy of them. They are not the poor unfortunates demagogues would make them out to be. Their round day's work is not the peculiar hardship they represent. In some shape, it is the lot of all men who deserve to be called men, of all human beings who are not content to be mere drones, sluggards and loafers, pests and burdens to society, instead of a benefit. And nowhere is this lot more inevitable than in this free young Republic of ours, with its magnificent destinies yet to be worked out. Nowhere is the attempt to shirk that lot more discreditable. Complaint from American freemen of labor as a misfortune! Why, the only unfortunates are those who cannot labor, not those who do and can. The stalwart sinewy men who make up those meetings are the last objects for pity in the world. It is an abuse of language for such Americans even to style themselves poor. Men with sound minds and sound arms are not poor. Real poverty in this land is to be found only in orphan infancy, languishing sickness or decrepid age, or other conditions which make labor impossible. The mere lack of the superfluities of the rich does not make a man poor, for every element of true well-being and happiness may, and usually does, lie outside of these.

The superior condition of the American laborer is abundantly shown by the undisputed fact that no other laborer in the world gets anything like such wages, and that laborers everywhere else seek America as a land of comparative ease and plenty. You seldom or never hear an American workman complaining of his hard lot without seeing in him a bad specimen. He is almost sure to be one who has made himself unhappy by his own misconduct, one who has sought success where success is never found in any vocation—somewhere else than in his own persevering industry, sobriety, and frugality. The only positive result of all this workingman's agitation is just this same positive evil. It demoralizes the younger and less experienced portion of the laboring class—sops the manly, independent, self-controlling spirit which should animate them, dissatisfies and unsettles them, makes them ever ready to curse their fate for trials which belong to every human condition, and ever prone to look away from themselves for relief. It is this which insensibly shapes so many of these men into mere tools for demagogues, speculators, and all kinds of selfish schemers. The time was when the average American workman would as soon have thought of denying the broad daylight as of ignoring the truth that labor is a commodity, whose price, like that of every other commodity, must rise or fall according to the relation of supply to demand. He no more dreamed of quarreling with this law of the nature of things than of quarreling with the law of gravitation. In that day strikes were unheard of, and all devices to force up wages to an unnatural level. Least of all, did the absurdity get circulation that eight hours' work should bring the price of ten hours' work—that a market commodity curtailed by a fifth, should bear the price of the whole. The plain truth was universally understood and acted upon that the best interests of the workman and employer are inseparably connected; that no matter what the sphere or gradation, all engaged had a stake in the common prosperity. There was, then, a high feeling of self-reliance and personal independence which would have made it morally impossible for workmen to delegate to a committee or association, as they now so often do, the decision whether they should continue work, or, in other words, whether they should continue to earn their own living. There was too much of the pride and jealousy of American freemen, at that day, to allow an American workman to subject his dearest domestic interests to the will or caprice or passion of others. Such a spectacle as that witnessed in the Pennsylvania coal mines, three weeks ago—thousands of workmen suddenly throwing down their implements and refusing work or affecting to refuse work, and paralyzing the industry of three teeming counties, and all without the least knowledge of any cause or reason, but simply because orders to that effect had been received from a so-styled "Central Committee," namely—a dozen men who probably had been tampered with by unscrupulous speculators, bent upon raising the price of coal,—such a spectacle, we say, never was, and never could be, seen in this country before this present agitating generation.

This new spirit, we believe, cannot have a very long run. It is in conflict with the whole genius of our institutions, with all the sense and character of our people. Like all other follies it must encounter the correcting lessons of bitter experience. In all likelihood it will die out in due time, and American labor will be itself again. The great question is: How much mischief will be wrought to itself, and to the capital that employs it, before that happy consummation is reached. It should be the mutual endeavor in the meantime to cut down that amount of mischief as much as possible.

The Indiana Ratification—Senator Morton's Argument.

The Constitution of Indiana requires the presence of two-thirds of the members of either branch of the Legislature to form a quorum. On the recent occasion of ratifying the Fifteenth Amendment less than two-thirds of the members of the House were present, and in the Senate Senators were counted who, though on the floor, had virtually surrendered their seats by resignation. Nevertheless, the presiding officer of each Chamber declared the act of ratification complete, and these decisions are accepted as proof that Indiana may be properly included in the list of ratifying States.

Mr. MORTON now appears with an argument designed to show that the two-thirds called for by the Constitution relate to the number of members at the time holding seats, whether present or absent, not to the total number of seats in the Senate and House respectively. When one-third of either body resigns, he contends that for the time that proportion does not enter as an element into the constitution of a quorum; and, therefore, that the organic law of the State is satisfied if two-thirds of the members that remain be present when the vote is taken. To say that Mr. MORTON constructs an ingenious argument in support of this view is simply to recognize his unquestioned ability. But the view itself suffers from two important drawbacks. In the first place, it has the disadvantage of being, obviously, a piece of special pleading in support of a partisan purpose; and being a partisan plea, with all its clearness, it lacks cogency and moral force. In the next place, it conflicts with the construction hitherto put upon the provision by both parties, and with the reasoning relied upon at the outset to justify the decision of the presiding officers.

Until the exigency for this interpretation arose, neither party deemed that the constitutional two-thirds meant less than two-thirds of the whole number of Senators and members respectively. Both the Senate and the House acquiesced in this rendering in March last, when the Democratic one-third bolted to avert a vote upon the amendment. If Mr. MORTON's theory is correct, the Legislature should then have gone on with its business, regardless of the absence of those who had resigned their seats. And the fact that that course was not pursued—that the resignation of one-third was held by both parties to render the formation of a quorum impossible—is prima facie evidence that so recently as two months ago Mr. MORTON's version was not entertained by his party friends. Governor BAKER's proclamation in regard to the new elections rendered necessary by the action of the bolters, may also be cited in the same connection. He declared legislative business stopped by the absence of the Democrats, who composed more than one-third; and by assuming this position, the Republican Governor seems to us to have rejected the plea urged by the Republican Senator.

Still further, the proposition employed at the beginning of the controversy explicitly conceded that in matters of local concern a quorum implies two-thirds of the total number of seats; but, it was contended, in national matters, such as the ratification of a federal amendment, the provision of the local Constitution is not operative; a bare majority will suffice. This attempt to separate ordinary from extraordinary action, and to surround the latter with an inferior guarantee of thoroughness, had not the merit of subtlety; it was simply absurd. Nor is its character improved by the alleged readiness of Congress to disregard the requirements of State law, and to constitute itself sole judge of what is lawful in concerns over which a State is usually supposed to exercise supreme control. Reasonable or unreasonable, however, the hypothesis framed by the Republican journals of Indiana, is fatal to one of the leading features of Mr. MORTON's argument.

The Shakers Again.

This kindly, but remarkably eccentric body of religionists have now, it appears concluded their series of May meetings at Boston, and returned to their various little local colonies and communities, to their combined culture of the soil and culture of the soul, refreshed by the interview. And if they claimed, in their gathering, that they, after all, had the real secret of human progress, and all other sects and societies were going more or less astray, what did they more than the twenty other bodies, holding Conventions around them? Elder LEONARD remarked that "Shakers occupied a different place from the mass of Christians; the plane of life occupied by the others was well enough, but the Shakers deemed that the Christian Scriptures require an abandonment of the worldly and animal instincts and passions." Brother LOOMIS discussed the question of marriage as a Christian ordinance, and affirmed the Scriptures to be against it; and, "as seeking to live the angel life now, they felt called upon to forbear entering matrimony."

But, we repeat, such a setting-forth of one's merits is one object of the anniversaries. And hence if the Shakers claim that their ladder, whereby they mount to "a higher plane," to the "angel life," is, as it were, the Original Jacobs' ladder—surely this is no offence on such an occasion. One venerable and zealous Shaker was wont to argue his peculiar religious notions from the analogy of the vegetable kingdom—perhaps from being so long used to carrying about herbs and mustards, he had acquired a kind of religious theory about it. At any rate, while their simples and dances continue honest, no one can look upon the most astounding doctrinal prodigies of the Shakers with anything more than good humor.

And, besides, there was another feature in the Shaker anniversary which distinguished it from that of other religious and social bodies. It was conducted in perfect harmony; there was no bragging on "Mount Lebanon" against "Canterbury," nor any controversy as to who was wasting most time by inappropriate speeches; no celestial kites, and no hissing and coughing down of adventurers. All this makes up a very good and satisfactory record for the Shakers, especially in these belligerent days.

Promised City Improvements.

Mayor HALL, during the last days of the Legislative session, wrote us a letter, saying that if the Republicans would only let the Democratic office-holders of this City have what money they wanted, it should be spent in improving and adorning our streets and public squares, and in making New-York what it should be,—the most elegant and desirable dwelling-place on the Continent. Well, Mayor HALL got the money; we call on him now for his promised improvements. Where are they? Where are the signs of their appearance? We were promised specifically the removal of obstructions from the streets, of nuisances from the public parks;—the hideous pea-nut and apple-stands which have so long converted the borders of the City Hall Park into the most disgraceful and disgusting place of its kind in Christendom, have increased in number since that time. The City authorities devote themselves, with great assiduity and success, to hindering the erection of a new Post Office. Not the first step has yet been taken toward converting the Park into a Plaza, for which a very large sum of money was appropriated. In short, not a single one of the brilliant improvements promised by Mayor HALL seems to have been thought of since. Were these promises made, like pie-crust, only to be broken?

The Small-Pox Epidemic.

The existence of numerous cases of small-pox in the City for several months past has been well known to the Board of Health and other authorities; but, for commercial as well as sanitary reasons, the intelligence has been concealed from the general public. The active efforts of the Board of Health to prevent the spread of the disease have been very effective. Although the disease has not been wholly "stamped out," it has not become the fearful epidemic which it has been represented to be, and is well under control. The publication of the facts have been wisely delayed by the Board of Health, for the reason that as soon as it became known that small-pox prevailed in this port, all ships leaving our harbor would be quarantined on their arrival in other ports. This will probably now be done,—in many instances most unnecessarily, and to the great detriment of our commerce.

It appears that the epidemic came in the first instance from abroad, and for months past ships with the disease on board have escaped the quarantine officers and been permitted to land at our wharves. Collector GRINNELL lately furnished the Board of Health with a Revenue cutter, and its officials in the guise of Custom Inspectors have boarded and disinfected many vessels which had escaped the quarantine officer because he had no authority of law, as the Board has, for detaining them. It is highly important that the defective quarantine laws should be immediately amended so as to give to the quarantine officer all necessary powers now possessed by the Board of Health for detaining and disinfecting ships.

We do not think there is occasion for serious agitation on the part of the public in consequence of the publication of exaggerated statements of the actual facts; but the instructions of the Board of Health, as published elsewhere, ought to be promptly and fully carried out.

A Mistake.

We observe that one of our exchanges speaks of the Philadelphia correspondent of the London Times as being Hon. WM. B. REED. We happen to know that this is an entire mistake. We are not aware how Mr. REED is spending the leisure which retirement from active pursuits has given him; but we do know that it is not in writing for the London Times, or any other newspaper, foreign or domestic. The American correspondence of the Times has come to be a mere compilation of current news, generally without comment of any kind. The writer necessarily betrays his political bias in his method of stating facts, but his letters are by no means such as Mr. W. B. REED would be likely to write.

The Irish Church Bill.

The Irish Church bill was read a third time on Monday by a vote of 361 to 247, the vote on the second reading, two months ago, having been 368 to 250. The solidity of the Liberal majority, in face of all the direct assaults, flank movements, and masked batteries of the Tories is very remarkable. For two months and more Mr. DISRAELI has exerted all his unrivaled talents in Parliamentary strategy in order to throw difficulties in the way of the measure, and all his powers of sarcasm in order to place the conduct of the Ministry in the worst possible light; Mr. GATHORNE HARDY has said all that could be said to rouse the enthusiasm of the old "no surrender" Tories; and all the able Tory lawyers have been busily engaged in pricking holes in the technical details of the bill. The recent disturbances and agrarian outrages in Ireland have furnished the Opposition with a plausible argument against it—they pointed to them triumphantly as a proof that neither the removal of the Irish Church grievance nor the manifestation of good will toward Ireland on the part of England, would do anything whatever to satisfy the Irish people. But notwithstanding all this, the majority which first rallied round Mr. GLADSTONE on the second reading has only been decreased by seven votes, while the Opposition phalanx has been diminished by three. The number of members elected under pledges to support Mr. GLADSTONE gave him a clear majority of 114, and throughout the whole struggle his majority has scarcely varied half a dozen votes from that figure. Rarely has the opinion of the English people been so emphatically expressed as it was at the last elections, or so steadfastly maintained by their representatives as it has been throughout the session. In the face of this final vote we can scarcely conceive that the most obstructive Tory peer can entertain the idea of opposing or mutilating the bill in the House of Lords.

MINOR TOPICS.

English feeling, as expressed through the English journals, is calming down under the few pacificatory and amicable remarks made by Mr. MOTLEY on his arrival at Liverpool. Mr. MOTLEY will doubtless be prudent and diplomatic during his stay in England, and, instead of giving himself up to speech-making, will address himself to the important task of settling our English relations on a proper basis.

As so many of our white "statesmen" have fallen into the habit of making all sorts of imprudent and impertinent revelations and foolish statements to Washington reporters for publication, it is not to be wondered at that the colored statesman lately appointed Minister to Hayti, should, immediately after receiving his instructions, have run to a Washington reporter and told him "confidentially" all the private advice about his duties received from President GRANT and Secretary FISH. But though BASSETT's conduct did not surprise us, it was very foolish conduct, and it ought to secure him another piece of private advice from the Foreign Secretary before he leaves for Hayti to-morrow.

Mr. JUSTIN MCCARTHY, who is one of the most Liberal of the most pronounced school of English Liberals, will speak on the Alabama question in this City on Monday next, and the proceeds of the lecture will be passed over to one of the best ordered and most deserving of our local charities. No one can have forgotten the bold and eloquent manner in which Mr. MCCARTHY championed the American Union in London during the great rebellion. He was at that time editor of the London Star, which was then JOHN BRIGHT's organ, and the influence which he exercised was no less than the ability which he displayed. Beside his position as a journalist, Mr. MCCARTHY has a distinguished name in English literature. As a master and translator in the higher ranges of German philosophy and speculation,—as a student of French history, life and thought,—as a novelist, biographer and political writer,—he has made some admirable and valuable contributions to the literature of the day. During his brief stay in this City he has contributed to the leading magazines. To the Galaxy he has furnished some striking papers on English affairs, and his paper in the current number on "George Elliott and George Lewes" is a fine piece of critical writing. In Harper's Magazine he is publishing a serial novel, entitled "My Enemy's Daughter," which we have heard praised highly by those who have read it. But, at this moment, it may be more to the point to refer to Mr. MCCARTHY as a politician, and especially to his views on the existing question which has lately threatened to disturb the pacific relations existing between England and America. We cannot tell what will be his course of reasoning, nor can we tell precisely the conclusions he has reached on the Alabama difficulty; but we should not be surprised if his opinions were found to be rather startling to those who think that the universal voice of England is expressed through the Pall Mall Gazette, the London Times, the Spectator and the Saturday Review.

The "strike" of the hotel waiters who were refused higher wages has taken place at a convenient season for all parties. On one side, a great many waiters are now wanted at the watering-place resorts; and, on the other side, the City hotels will have no difficulty in getting waiters from among arriving immigrants and from the idle people around town. The strikers should start for the country at once, and not hang around the streets for weeks, drinking whisky and smoking cigars.

Mr. PILE, of Missouri, who was nominated as Minister to Brazil, but rejected by the Senate, has now been appointed Governor of the Territory of New-Mexico, in place of Mr. CROW, of Alabama, who, after his appointment, was found to be disqualified by the disability enactments of Congress. Mr. PILE is certainly far better fitted for his new position of Governor than he was for the Brazilian Mission,—as will readily be believed even by those who know no more of him than the speeches he delivered in Congress.

It is time that the Protestant churches took steps to train up a fit class of colored men for pastoral duties among the Southern negroes. Yesterday the Old School Assembly took into consideration the duty of providing, as rapidly as possible, "competent ministers, catechists and teachers of the colored race;" and for this purpose they urged the adequate endowment and equipment of an institution already existing in North Carolina. No one who knows what sort of characters the colored preachers of the South are will doubt the necessity of this action.

"Decoration Day" has been celebrated on three different days in different parts of the country. In some localities, its touching ceremonies were performed on Saturday last; in others on Sunday, and in still others on Monday. This is unfortunate, and ought not to recur on another year. The Evening Post suggests that "Decoration Day," as it is already called, should become a yearly holiday—that it should be added to the small number of our national festivities, and set apart as a day of thanks for our great deliverance, and of grateful remembrance of those brave soldiers who gave their lives to the cause of the Union and free government. The suggestion is a good one. The 8th of January was kept until lately, in memory of the battle of New-Orleans and the triumph of American arms under ANDREW JACKSON; but this custom has been dropped. Why not adopt the practice of keeping "Decoration Day," in honor of the triumph of freedom and the Union?

A great many of our City landlords have by this time come to see the force of the warnings given them before the arrival of the moving season. They were warned not to take another of those long steps which have been taken every year of late in the way of raising rents. They were told that to the great majority of tenants it was not this year a matter of choice whether they would pay more for their houses—they were unable to pay more; and if it was demanded, they would either be forced out of the City, or forced into narrower quarters. In either case, houses would be vacated, and many of them would in all likelihood be left empty for months on the hands of landlords. Many of the property owners who failed to heed these warnings, and who chose to disregard these facts, are now suffering the consequence; for there are more houses, and parts of houses, vacant at this time than we have ever known at this season in any previous year.

The City of Worms is one of the most interesting places in Germany connected with the history of Lutheranism. The great Protestant Congress which assembled there on Monday appears to have been thoroughly imbued with the spirit of LUTHER, and took the same stand against the Pope (PIUS IX.) which the great heretic himself took against the Pope (LEO X.) when, 348 years ago, he appeared before the Diet of Worms, and in the brilliant presence of the Emperor, the princes and nobles, the Church dignitaries, and a great concourse of spectators. As the apostle of the Reformation, LUTHER at that time boldly challenged the authority of the Pope. So now, after the lapse of centuries, his followers meet to renew the challenge, and uphold the spiritual independence which LUTHER then asserted at the peril of his life. The magnificent monument of LUTHER which stands in the City of Worms is a less worthy commemoration of his character than the Congress which has just been held to reassert his principles.

The Right Hon. W. E. FORSTER, Vice-President of the Committee of Privy Council on Education, made use of a very happy expression in a speech at Leeds the other day. He was arguing against the injustice of "giving the gentlemen of England educational establishments to themselves"—injustice, he added, to themselves as well as to others. What was wanted, he believed, were "bridges from one class of schools to another; so that the poor child should have the chance, if he had the faculty, of becoming a scholar for the benefit of his country." Mr. FORSTER has just hit a vital defect in the English system of education—the great difficulty, amounting almost to an impossibility—which English boys, however capable and ambitious, but not blessed with the social position of "gentlemen," experience in securing for themselves the benefits of that higher education of which the universities and great public schools at present have the monopoly. He is practically "Minister for Education" to the Gladstone Government, though his sphere of action is technically confined to the control of elementary education, but if properly supported by the Liberal majority, he is just the man to devise some effectual means for constructing the much-needed "bridges."

Fifteen Hundred Fruit Trees Maliciously Girdled.

From the Detroit Post, May 31.

A few nights since, at Benton Harbor, St. Joseph County, Mich., in the great fruit-growing region of this State, the orchards of Mr. MARTIN GREEN were visited by a gang of rascals, who girdled 1,500 peach, cherry, apricot, plum, pear and apple trees, valued at $20,000. The trees were in full bloom, and covered with a mass of blossoms. It was evidently intended that the work should be thoroughly done, as the trees were hacked and cut, and the bark peeled off with a malicious care. The community was aroused, offered $15,000 for the arrest of the perpetrators, and set to work to repair, as far as possible, the evil which had been done. Five or six hundred trees were regarded as utterly hopeless. The whole region was held under contribution for rags and grafting wax. The grafting-wax was heated in large kettles; women and children stripped and dipped the rags, the tree-surgeons tenderly closed the gape in the ragged and torn bark, and bound the orifices closely with the bandages, afterward painting the whole liberally with the hot wax to exclude the air and protect the repairs that must be left to nature.

It is surmised that the failure of the Western Transportation Company, with which Mr. GREEN was connected, may have been at the bottom of it. The people declare that there are enough trees remaining in that section to hang the authors of this extraordinary villainy, should they ever be caught.

WASHINGTON.

The Debt Statement—A Reduction of About Eight Millions—Woman's Suffrage—The Women of Washington Denied the Right to Vote—Arms for Turkey.

Special Dispatches to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, June 1.

The public debt statement, which will be issued to-morrow will show a reduction of about eight million dollars. The receipts from incomes yesterday at the Treasury amounted to upward of three millions. Commissioner DELANO intends to make some changes in the limits of the Southern Supervisors' districts. He has agreed upon the following, and will make the announcement in a few days:

Hereafter, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Connecticut are to form a single district; Georgia and Florida one; Alabama and Mississippi one; and Louisiana and Arkansas one.

DENIAL OF THE RIGHT OF WOMEN TO VOTE.

The judges of election of the city made formal reply to-day to twenty-eight women who had applied to be registered, denying their right to vote on legal grounds. One of the judges expressed himself in favor of the movement. WILCOX, who championed their cause, has got angry, and written a letter asking that his name be stricken from the rolls, on the ground that he is unwilling to exercise a privilege which is withheld from these women who are in his opinion better qualified to use it than he.

ARMS FOR TURKEY.

An officer high in rank of the Turkish Army arrived here some days ago for the purpose of purchasing arms for his Government. He made a trip to New-England recently and bought largely from rifle manufacturers in that section.

FLORIDA STATE BONDS.

About two years ago the then Government of the State of Florida issued about $80,000 worth of bonds to meet some temporary demands. The Legislature recently authorized a further issue of five hundred thousand six per cent. bonds, to be sold at not less than twenty-five per cent. below par, making provision at the same time for the withdrawal of the $80,000 previously issued. It appears that some of the Congress delegation, the Governor, the Comptroller and some other State and United States officials, have agreed to quarrel, the result of which is the refusal by the Comptroller to take the necessary steps to put the bonds on the market. A party is here endeavoring to find some way out of the difficulty.

THE COLORED PRINTER DOUGLASS—ANOTHER LETTER.

Another letter has been published in reference to the colored printer DOUGLASS. It is from the Secretary of the Denver Union, and, after giving an excellent account of DOUGLASS, closes as follows:

"I know no reason, except race and color, that should deprive him of becoming a member of a Typographical Union; and the fact of his being a negro, will, no doubt, be considered by your Union a sufficient reason to refuse him membership."

THE MONUMENT TO THE UNION DEAD.

The Committee who have in charge the erection of a monument to the Union dead, were favorably received by the President to-day, who promised at the proper time to indorse in a letter the undertaking.

PERSONAL.

Ex-Congressman PILE, of Missouri, was provided for to-day by being appointed Governor of New-Mexico, for which position Colonel CROW, of Alabama, was nominated and confirmed, but was unable to take the oath. The New-York politicians are urging Commissioner DELANO to remove Supervisor DUTCHER, who was appointed by Mr. JOHNSON.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, June 1.

THE CUBAN QUESTION.

It has been erroneously stated that Secretary FISH has effected an arrangement with the Spanish Secretary for Foreign Affairs, by which the Spanish Minister here has power to settle all ordinary questions arising between the United States and Spain with reference to Cuba. The arrangement is between the Minister and the Captain-General of Cuba, by which certain classes of cases heretofore brought before the Captain-General, will be adjusted at Washington through the Spanish Minister.

SALE OF PUBLIC LANDS IN COLORADO.

A proclamation has just been signed and will be duly promulgated, for a public sale of lands, embracing about 2,000,000 acres, to take place at Denver City, Colorado, commencing on the 13th of September next.

APPOINTMENTS.

The President has made the following appointments: WILLIAM A. PILE, Governor of New-Mexico; CHRISTOPHER C. SHEATS, United States Consul at Elsinore; WILLIAM M. KENDELL, Postmaster at Plymouth, Ind.

RICHARD H. CURRY has been appointed Register of the Land Office at New-Orleans.

PERSONAL.

JOHN B. GUTHRIE, a prominent clerk in the office of the Secretary of the Treasury for a long time past, and legal adviser of the Department of Internal Revenue and Customs Regulations, has resigned.

It is said that LEWIS H. DOUGLASS, the colored printer, was yesterday transferred from the case to a position as copy-holder. This action would seem to take the question of the admission of colored members to the Typographical Union out of the control of such organizations, as copy-holders are not required to be members of such Unions. But the issue having been raised, it will probably be pressed to a decision.

ARMY.

Major J. H. SMITH, Judge-Advocate, is assigned to duty at headquarters of the Department of Missouri.

NAVAL.

Dispatches have been received from Rear Admiral Turner, commanding the Pacific Squadron, dated at Valparaiso May 1. The Pawhatan was at that port, having recently returned from Talcahuana. The Dakota was at Callao when the Congress left. The Nyack was at Callao. The Kearsarge sailed from Talcahuana on the 17th of April for the Marquesas, Society, Friendly and Feejee Islands, Australia and New-Zealand, thence east to the Cape of Good Hope. The Tuscarora arrived at Valparaiso on the 21 of April from Callao. She was preparing to sail for the Gulf of Mexico to join the North Atlantic Squadron. The Onward was at Valparaiso. Lieutenant-Commander Norton W. Landers has been detached from the Oneida, and awaits orders to the Juniata. Master A. H. Vail is detached from the Saginaw, and ordered here for examination for promotion. Surgeon Henry C. Nelson is ordered to practice on the ship Macedonian, relieving C. J. Cleboine, who is placed on waiting orders.

The Governor Refuses to Commute the Sentence of a Wife-Murderer.

From the Rochester Union, May 31.

We stated on Saturday that the Governor had refused to commute the sentence of JOSEPH MESSNER, who is to be executed on Friday next for the murder of his wife. From the letter it will be seen that the Governor has given the case a very careful consideration, and finds nothing that favors the prisoner. All hope is gone for MESSNER, and he has been so informed. He realizes his situation, and has requested that the few days he has to live in cons

TELEGRAMS.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The London Papers on Mr. Motley's Liverpool Addresses.

LONDON, Tuesday, June 1.

Nearly all the journals have articles to-day on the presentation of the addresses to Mr. MOTLEY, and discuss the probable future relations between Great Britain and the United States. The Times, after contrasting Mr. SUMNER's speech in the Senate with Mr. MOTLEY's language of yesterday, hopes that the peaceful tendency of the latter is not a tribute to appearances, but a real practical indication of the intention of his Government. Setting aside all controversies, Great Britain offers Mr. MOTLEY a hearty welcome. The Times is assured that both the Government and the people of the nation will reciprocate his friendly expressions.

The News says it is satisfactory to find that President GRANT's Government have a policy of conciliation and peace on the question of the relations of England and the United States. The News is anxious to know the basis on which new deliberations are to be conducted, and adds: "But if Mr. MOTLEY's suggestions to Lord CLARENDON are pervaded by the spirit breathed at Liverpool, the Americans may reasonably hope for success. England would be content to accept a settlement arranged by Lord CLARENDON and Mr. MOTLEY."

The Telegraph says any proposals made by Mr. MOTLEY will be weighed on their merits. England, having made her protest against Mr. SUMNER's doctrine, has dismissed it from consideration.

The Star rejoices in the friendly tone of the remarks made by the new American Minister.

The Irish Church Bill in the House of Lords.

LONDON, Tuesday, June 1—Midnight.

The Irish Church bill was read for the first time in the House of Lords to-night. It was agreed that the bill should come up for its second reading on the 14th instant.

Rumored Resignation of the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.

DUBLIN, Tuesday, June 1.

It is rumored that Earl SPENCER, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, is about to resign.

ITALY.

Probable Withdrawal of the Minister of Finance.

FLORENCE, Tuesday, June 1.

The rejection by Parliament of the financial plans proposed by Count CAMBRAY DIGNY, Minister of Finance, will probably lead to his withdrawal from the Cabinet, and to further ministerial changes.

CUBA.

Arrival of the American Minister to Mexico.

HAVANA, Tuesday, June 1.

THOMAS H. NELSON, the American Minister to Mexico, arrived here yesterday on the way to Vera Cruz.

The United States steamer Contoocook has returned to this port.

MEXICO.

Late Advices by Steamer at Havana—The Revolution in Queretaro—The Telegraph Across the Republic.

HAVANA, Tuesday, June 1.

Advices from the City of Mexico to May 26 have been received by steamer from Vera Cruz.

Many of the Mexican States refused to execute the law of Congress for the suppression of party demonstrations.

General MIRAFUENTES, compromised by the revolution in Queretaro, had been degraded by the Government from his rank and titles in the army. Congress had absolved Generals ALVAREZ, DAVALOS and MONTEVERDE from all charges of disloyalty.

Kidnappers were prosecuted with unusual vigor throughout the country.

Governor BUSTAMENTE had been acquitted of the charge of conspiracy.

Colonel MAYER still remained in prison.

Telegraphic communication across Mexico via the capital was complete from the Atlantic to the Pacific. A conducta of three millions in gold was on the way from the capital to Vera Cruz.

CALIFORNIA.

Sailing of the China for Panama.—Arrival of General Thomas by the Pacific Road—An Indian Chief in Custody.

SAN FRANCISCO, Tuesday, June 1.

The steamer Golden City sailed to-day for Panama, with $735,000 in treasure, of which $570,000 were for England, $65,000 for New-York, and $20,000 for Panama. Captain W. H. WEST, First Officer of the Golden City, died at sea on May 28. The body was embalmed and sent to New-York to-day by the steamer. He was formerly in command of the Pacific Mail Steamship Sacramento.

Major-General GEO. H. THOMAS and staff arrived here last night, seven days and ten hours' traveling time from New-York. They expressed themselves pleased with the management of the railroads.

Colonel GEORGE FREDERICK JAMES, a prominent lawyer and pioneer of the City, died suddenly yesterday.

An Indian chief, of the Hualpee tribe, of Arizona, now in custody of the military authorities of Angel Island, in this harbor, is held as a hostage for the good behavior of his tribe.

The Atlanta University at Atlanta, Ga.—Laying of the Corner-Stone.

ATLANTA, Ga., Tuesday, June 1.

The corner-stone of the Atlanta University, an institution on the plan of the Oberlin and Howard Universities, was laid to-day. The attendance was large, and included General LEROY and staff, Governor BULLOCK, Judge EMERSON, Judge MCCOY and many other prominent citizens. The institution is being established under the auspices of the Freedmen's Bureau and the Educational Aid Societies. Remarks were made by Governor BULLOCK, Judge MCCOY and others, and a lengthy address was delivered by JOHN M. LANGSTON. The arrangements were superintended by Colonel J. R. LEWIS, Superintendent of Education for Georgia.

Convention of Colored Men at Binghamton—Its Object.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Tuesday, June 1.

A Convention of colored men from all parts of this State, called by the Colored Citizens' State Central Committee, began its session at the Academy of Music in this city to-day. The object of the Convention is to organize a committee in every city, town and village in the State, to serve as canvassers and do other duty in the Fall campaign, when the new Constitution is submitted to the people. The Convention organized by the appointment of Governor SHEPARD, of Albany, as President, and a list of Vice-Presidents and Secretaries. The principal business of the Convention will be done to-morrow, when Fred. DOUGLASS, HIGHLAND GARRETT and others will participate. One or two colored supervisors are in attendance.

THE INDIANS.

Stragglers From Fort Leavenworth and Omaha—Indians Moving on Their Reservations—All Quiet on the Line of the Pacific Road.

ST. LOUIS, Tuesday, June 1.

The Republican's special dispatch from Fort Leavenworth says: "News from Camp Supply states that 1,200 Arapahoes had reached that point. Little Robe and a party of Cheyennes arrived on the evening of the 18th inst. Little Robe promised that his tribe would follow him and go on their reservation. Companies A and D of the Seventh Cavalry, under command of Colonel WEIR, are to be sent after the Fossil Creek depredators, some of whom are believed to be white men. Lieutenant MEMAN and a scouting party, a day or two ago, came up with a small war party of Indians, supposed to be those committing depredations on Salina River, near the mouth of Buffalo Creek, and pursued them fifteen miles, until darkness compelled him to desist. He reports two boys wounded and a woman and three children missing from that neighborhood. The Indians that attacked the Swedish settlement, in addition to those they killed, captured two women and two children. On Sunday a party of Indians were seen seven miles from Hays City. They are supposed to be the party who ran a train off the track at Fossil Creek and killed two men."

A dispatch from Omaha says: "The Indians along the Union Pacific Railroad remain quiet. At Forts Laramie and Fetterman strict non-intercourse with the traders is enforced by the officers. It is the intention of the Government to compel all the Indians desirous of trading to move on to their reservations."

Troubles in Western Kansas—Attacks on Settlements.

ST. LOUIS, Tuesday, June 1.

A dispatch from Leavenworth says about twenty white persons have been killed by Indians in Western Kansas during the past week. The massacre was the result of guerilla fighting, rather than a general Indian war. The scene of the operations had extended from the Republican and Solomon Rivers to the end of the Kansas Pacific Railroad. The settlements in that part of the State are scattered very much and exposed. General SCHOFIELD has a small number of troops at his disposal, and is making the best use he can of them. Governor HARVEY has organized two companies of scouts, to whom General SCHOFIELD furnished arms. Four United States surveying parties are out without military protection—two north of Fort Hays, one between Forts Hays and Larned, and one sixty miles west of Fort Hays. This is the most exposed part of the State, and fears are felt for the safety of the surveyors.

The Times and Conservative has news of an attack on the settlements along the Saline River. One woman was killed, one boy wounded and three children kidnapped. The soldiers are in pursuit.

Settlements Breaking Up in Saline County, Kansas—Great Suffering on Account of Indian Crueities.

ST. LOUIS, Tuesday, June 1.

A dispatch from Topeka, Kansas, says the Sheriff of Saline County reports thirteen persons—men, women and children—killed in that county by the Indians; and as many more are supposed to have been carried off. They suffer worse than death. The settlers in Saline County are coming eastward for protection.

State Sportsmen's Association—Annual Convention at Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Tuesday, June 1.

The fourth annual Convention of the New-York State Sportsmen's Association convened in this city last evening, and transacted business preliminary to the shooting matches, the first of which took place to-day. The programme consisted of rifle shooting at long and short distances, pistol shooting and single-trap shots, open to all comers; for single-trap shots, one ounce shot to be used. There were forty entries. The first prize was awarded to J. WEIGHILL, of Rochester; the second to A. KEENMAN, of Calumet, Ill.; the third to C. FILTON, of Buffalo, and the fourth to E. HUDSON, of Syracuse. There were two entries for the pistol shooting, 10 shots, 15 yards, open sights, string measurement, and the prizes were awarded as follows: The first to E. B. HUMBLETON, of Buffalo, 15 15-16 inches; the second to J. B. SAGE, Buffalo, 24½ inches. The prizes for the short distance rifle shooting were awarded as follows: The first to N. LEWIS, of Troy; second to W. L. BARNUM, and the third to SETH GREENE, of Rochester.

The match opened at noon and closed at 7 o'clock this evening. The annual supper will be given on Wednesday evening. To-morrow morning a match will be shot between J. WARD, of Toronto, and H. BOGARDUS, of Calumet, Ill, at 50 birds, for $200 a side. The programme for the second day consists of "casting the fly" and the "State trap shoot."

The prizes for the long distance rifles were awarded as follows: First prize, R. RATHBUN, of Auburn; second, WILLIAM MALCOM, of Syracuse.

The next State Convention is to be held at Rochester, between May 1 and June 15. The following were elected officers for the ensuing year: President, C. C. MORSE, of Rochester; First Vice-President, J. Simpson, of Seneca; Second Vice-President, R. Newell, of Buffalo; Recording Secretary, John B. Sage, of Buffalo; Corresponding Secretary, E. G. Billings, of Rochester; Treasurer, S. M. Spencer, of Rochester. The weather has been fine, with the exception of a shower, and all goes off smoothly.

Homicide at Lima, N. Y.—A Quarrel About a Trifling Matter the Cause.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Tuesday, June 1.

Yesterday afternoon a murder occurred at Lima, Livingston County. PATRICK GASKIN and THOMAS SMITH, who was in the employ of B. A. VARY, were on their return to VARY's with a flock of sheep, which they had been washing, when VARY invited GASKIN to ride in his carriage with him to the house, which he did, and was sent back with umbrellas to SMITH and a man named KAVANAGH. GASKIN failed to deliver the umbrellas, and SMITH feeling a little jealous, words ensued between him and GASKIN. KAVANAGH separated them, but they met again soon afterward, when SMITH stabbed GASKIN twice with a pocket-knife—once in the liver and again in the bowels, which wounds proved fatal in a few hours. SMITH went after physicians for the wounded man and then surrendered himself to the officers of the law. GASKIN leaves a wife and seven children.

Sad Casualty in Syracuse—A Young Girl Suffocated by Gas.

SYRACUSE, Tuesday, June 1.

A girl named NANCY KING, aged 14, from Tompkins Cove, Rockland County, N. Y., was suffocated to death at the Syracuse House last night. She was here in care of CALVIN TOMPKINS and wife, who came to attend the State Temperance Convention, and brought her on a pleasure visit. The girl was put into a room by herself and instructed how to put the gas out. These instructions were fatal. She turned the gas off and then on and went to bed. This morning, not appearing, the door was broken open and the girl found dead and cold. The father of the girl was in TOMPKINS' employ. She was in his Sunday School class, and was brought on a visit here as a rare pleasure. The Coroner's inquest elicited these facts. The case excites deep interest here.

The Schoeppe Murder Trial at Carlisle, Penn.—Interesting Proceedings.

CARLISLE, Penn., Tuesday, June 1.

At the Schoeppe murder trial, yesterday, the whole day was occupied by the examination, on the part of the defence, of Dr. WORNLEY, of Columbus, Ohio. The doctor's testimony was given in detail, covering the entire ground of death by poison. His opinion seemed to be that the tests used by Professor AIKEN for the discovery of prussic acid in the stomach of Miss STRUCHECKER, did not afford conclusive evidence of its existence there. His plan is that the admixture of other matter is more delicate and manipulatory refinement. The whole of to-day was occupied in the taking of rebutting testimony on both sides, and in the reading of medical authorities. The case will be argued before the jury to-morrow. As the trial nears its close, the anxiety in the public mind to get the verdict of the jury is greatly increasing.

The New-York State Temperance Convention at Syracuse—First Day's Proceedings.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Tuesday, June 1.

The State Temperance Convention met at Wieting Hall this afternoon. About 100 delegates were present. Rev. SILAS HALL was appointed temporary Chairman. Committees on Organization and Resolutions were appointed. While the first Committee were out, GERRIT SMITH made an address on the functions of civil government, holding its first duty to be the suppression of liquor selling. The Committee on Permanent Organization at length reported the following officers:

President—Charles C. Leigh, of New-York.

Vice-Presidents—Samuel McKeon, of New-York; John O'Donnell, of Lewis County; George Lansing Taylor, of New-York; R. S. Simmons, of Columbia County; William G. Gee, of Orange County; Myron H. Clark, of Ontario County; J. B. Tallidgeman, of Madison County, and J. C. Hamilton, of Erie County.

Secretaries—F. N. Stearns, of New-York; M. H. Beebe, of Tioga County; E. H. Leary of St. Lawrence.

The report was amended by substituting Ex-Governor MYRON H. CLARK for President, and putting Mr. LEIGH in Mr. CLARK's place as Vice-President. The report was then adopted.

Senator O'DONNELL moved to instruct the Committee on Resolutions to report a plan of organization for the temperance voters of the State of New-York. This was discussed at much length, and finally adopted.

Fraternal greetings were exchanged by telegraph with the State Temperance Convention in session at Milwaukee, Wis.

The first day's proceeding closed with a large public meeting, which was addressed by C. C. LEIGH and others.

At the evening session of the Convention resolutions were reported by J. N. STEARNS, from the Committee, favoring political action on the part of temperance men. They were discussed during the evening by various delegates, and without taking action upon them, the Convention adjourned until 9 o'clock to-morrow morning.

State Colored Convention at Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Tuesday, June 1.

The State Colored Convention met here to-day, delegates being present from nearly every county in the State. The session between 12 and 5 o'clock P. M. was occupied with speeches and the permanent organization of the Convention. At the night session a long series of resolutions were adopted, expressing confidence in GRANT and his Administration; asking that colored apprentices be admitted to all branches of trade; that no colored mechanic shall be prohibited from any trade; thanking the President and Federal office-holders for the appointment of colored men to positions, and pledging the colored Republicans of Maryland to support the regular nominees of the party.

The New-Hampshire Legislature—Nomination of Candidates for the Offices.

CONCORD, N. H., Tuesday, June 1.

The Republican Legislative caucus nominated to-night SAMUEL N. WHEELER, of Dover, for Speaker; W. B. HAYES, of Manchester, and J. H. BENTON, of Lancaster, for Clerk and Assistant; JOHN Y. MUGRIDGE, of Concord, President of the Senate; JOHN W. CURRIER, of Alton, and L. B. MORRILL, of Concord, Clerk and Assistant. The Democrats nominated G. F. PALMER, of Haverhill, Speaker; EUGENE LEWIS, of Peterboro, and C. A. HARDEN, of Hillsboro, Clerk and Assistant.

Reported Assassination of a Sheriff in North Carolina.

RALEIGH, N. C., Tuesday, June 1.

Information reached here yesterday of the assassination of O. R. COLEGRAVE, Sheriff of Jones County, in this State, as he was on his way from his home to his office, on Saturday morning last. He was shot and killed by a party of white men, who were concealed near the roadside. A servant who was with him was shot through his arm and side, and has since died. The Sheriff's horse received a charge of buckshot in his head. Governor HOLDEN has offered a reward of $400 for the arrest of the assassins.

The Oyster War—A Formidable Fleet at the Oyster Dredging Banks.

RICHMOND, Va., Tuesday, June 1.

Colonel STANTON, the State Auditor, has ordered the State oyster fleet, consisting of three iron steam propellers, carrying artillery, to remain on the oyster dredging banks all the Summer. This is to prevent the New-York, New-Jersey and Maryland oystermen from a Summer raid for oysters to plant.

Musical.

OPERA BOUFFE AT THE THEATRE FRANCAIS.

HERVE's opera of "Chilpéric," sung at the Theatre Francais last evening, for the first time in this country, is characterized by the same excellencies and the same defects for which "L'Oeil Crevé" was notable. Aside from a rondo in the first act, it contains no air likely to impress itself upon the memory of those peculiar dilettants whose appreciation of the art is limited to the répertoire of OFFENBACH and his compeers. But the music is of a higher order, and if fewer melodies denote the inventiveness of the composer, a treatment to which more popular and less cultured and careful writers have not accustomed us discloses a master hand. It was very late when the first hearing of "Chilpéric" terminated last night, and a hurried notice of it is therefore all that can be penned. The representation was very smooth and thoroughly successful. It is safe to say that no one quitted the theatre with the slightest conception of the plot—which out of sheer inability we shall not attempt to recount—but logic and HERVE's libretti are subjects known to have so little connection with each other, that there was no disappointment on that score. Some of the incidents, however, are positively amusing, and the finale of the second act, during which Frédégonde, the discarded favorite, departs from her lover's palace drawing a handcart laden with mattresses and household articles of every kind, afterward serving as missiles for the courtiers to hurl at each other's heads, was accompanied by Brighton uproarious and prolonged. None of the operas produced at the Theatre Francais have been more happily represented than the latest one. All Mr. GRAU's artistes had a share in the performance, and all acquitted themselves of their task, with a fidelity indicative of close study and a brio showing a supreme disregard of the hot weather. M. CARRIER was Chilpéric and Mme. ROSE-BELL was Frédégonde. The former sang with unusual care, and his noble voice was never heard to better advantage. Mme. ROSE-BELL acted and sang admirably. M. BUCKERS, who embodied Bleto, a Court doctor addicted to much misquotation, had abundant opportunity to evince his skill as a comedian, and little chance for vocal display. The efforts of M. GENOT, whose caricatural appearance entitles him to a word of praise; of J. M. FRANCIS, an actor whose merit was proven when he assumed the character of Bobèche, in "Barbe-Bleue;" and of Mmes. RIZARELLI, DESCLAUZAS and GUERRETTI secured a completeness of interpretation far exceeding that of the opera in Paris. The choruses were superbly given. Scenery and costumes were good. "Chilpéric," about the very favorable reception of which the applause of a brilliant audience left no doubt whatever, is to be repeated until farther notice.

OPERA BOUFFE IN BROOKLYN.

"La Périchole" was sung last evening at the Brooklyn Academy of Music by M. AUJAC, Mlle. IRMA and the artistes of the Fifth-avenue Theatre. It was exquisitely performed and liberally applauded. The same company tenant the Academy to-morrow evening. Its members will then appear in "Barbe-Bleue."

Theatrical.

THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

The season at the Grand Opera House, noteworthy as it has been in respect of the beautiful stage-setting of the two plays given within its limits, has not, in spite of this, been one in which it has been determined in point of gain a rather change close with the present week. The change will be proposed toward the end of August, when Mr. FOCHTER and Mlle. CARLOTTA LEGRANZI, both of whom are positively under engagement to Mr. TAYLNURE, will brighten it with a presentation, success the efforts of the management have until now been unable to secure.

WEST POINT.

The Annual Examination of the Cadets—Arrival of the Board of Visitors—List of the Graduates—Anticipations of a Brilliant Session—Officers of the Academy.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

WEST POINT, Tuesday, June 1, 1869.

The annual examination of the cadets will commence to-morrow, and judging from cursory observations it promises to be as brilliant as the immediate predecessors. Visitors are beginning to arrive in considerable numbers, and the indications are that both ROE's and CONNERS' hotels will be filled in a short time. Yesterday the Board of Visitors were tendered a formal reception by the officers of the Academy. The Board embraces three military men and four civilians, as follows: Major-General DAVID HUNTER, M. E. ANDERSON, LL.D., President of the Rochester University; Judge G. H. WARREN, Massachusetts; Hon. R. F. LEAN, Missouri; Rev. R. L. STANTON, D.D., President of the Miami University; General JOHN EATON, Jr., Tennessee; General WALTER Q. GRESHAM, Indiana. The Board was met at ROE's Hotel by the military and academic staff, headed by the Superintendent, Brevet Brigadier-General THOMAS G. PITCHER. A salute of fifteen guns was fired in honor of their arrival from the Ringgold Battery by the corps of cadets, precisely at noon. Subsequently they were conducted through the various buildings, including the library, barracks, chapel and academic building, and were shown all that was interesting. They then enjoyed an opportunity of reviewing the cadets, who appeared in white pants for the first time this season. Colonel HENRY M. BLACK was in command of the battalion. The band appeared to excellent advantage under the leadership of Drum-Major LEVISON, he having donned a gorgeous new uniform of white cloth, with scarlet trimmings, adopted from the Austrian costume. The battalion, exclusive of the musicians, numbered about 200 cadets, who conclusively gave evidence of the efficiency of their drill instructors.

To-morrow the Visiting Board will attend the examination which, will be held in the library. It will commence at 9 A. M. daily, Sundays excepted, and will continue until about the 20th inst. The first or graduating class will be examined by the entire Board, and will be required to exhibit proficiency in the following branches of study:

Engineering, Civil and Military; Ethics and Law; Mineralogy and Geology; Spanish; Ordnance and Gunnery; Cavalry Tactics.

The candidates for graduation number thirty-nine, whose standard was as follows at the last examination:

1. Albert H. Payson, Massachusetts, 18 yrs. 7 months.
2. John G. D. Knight, Missouri, 18 years 7 months.
3. Richard L. Hoxie, Iowa, 19 years 10 months.
4. Edgar V. Bass, Minnesota, 19 years 6 months.
5. James R. Marshall, Ohio, 20 years 6 months.
6. Richard H. Savage, California, 19 years 3 months.
7. William L. Marshall, Kentucky, 19 years.
8. Simon H. Willard, Illinois, 20 years 7 months.
9. Henry Metcalfe, Mississippi, 19 years.
10. Frank Heath, New-York, 19 years 2 months.
11. Wm. J. Hamilton, New-Jersey, 20 years 2 months.
12. Samuel Dechert, New-York, 19 years.
13. John J. Casey, New-York, 18 years 7 months.
14. Clarence O. Howard, Massachusetts, 18 yrs. 5 mos.
15. David D. Johnson, at large, 18 years 6 months.
16. Francis C. Marshall, Jr., Ohio, 17 years 6 months.
17. Charles B. Barnett, Kentucky, 19 years 11 months.
18. Eugene O. Fechet, Michigan, 18 years 4 months.
19. William Everett, New-Hampshire, 17 years 5 mos.
20. Fred Dahlgren, at large, 17 years 8 months.
21. Charles W. Whipple, at large, 17 years 9 months.
22. George W. Deshler, New-Jersey, 19 years 11 mos.
23. David S. Doremus, Maryland, 19 years 4 months.
24. Alexander L. Morton, Missouri, 17 years 11 months.
25. Christopher T. Hall, Illinois, 18 years 6 months.
26. William P. Clark, New-York, 18 years 11 months.
27. George M. Brent, Kentucky, 17 years 9 months.
28. William F. Hall, Missouri, 18 years 8 months.
29. Joshua L. Fowler, New-York, 18 years 6 months.
30. John Pope, Jr., Illinois, 18 years.
31. William J. Volkmar, Pennsylvania, 17 years.
32. James H. Jones, at large, 18 years 8 months.
33. Richard E. Thompson, Rhode Island, 18 yrs. 5 mos.
34. John R. Rodman, at large, 18 years 10 months.
35. Joseph C. Breckinridge, Indiana, 18 years 9 months.
36. William C. Fortescue, Massachusetts, 19 years 2 mos.
37. John D. G. Hoskins, at large, 18 years 5 months.
38. Frank L. Shoemaker, Pennsylvania, 19 years 9 mos.
39. James W. Pope, Indiana, 19 years 5 months.

The examination will probably make some alteration in the present grades of the senior cadets, but it will not materially affect the general standard. The class is considerably smaller than any that has been graduated for years. Many of the candidates are sorely disappointed because they are debarred from entering the Engineer Corps, which has always been regarded as the most distinguished corps in the army. The reason is that the War Department has filled all the vacancies, and has ordered that the cadets shall hereafter take positions either in the ordnance, artillery, cavalry or infantry corps. After the first class has finished the ordeal of examination, the Academic Board will devote its attention to the second, third and fourth classes. The "plebs," or applicants for admission, will then appear before the Board. They number this year seventy-nine persons, who are expected to report before the 20th inst. Seven have already arrived, as follows: Joseph Garrard, Manchester, Vt.; George H. Padeen, Princeton, Ill.; D. J. Prather, Georgia; Edwin C. Sweglee, Lansing, Mich.; J. E. Meyers, Omaha, Nebraska; Robert London, Wilmington, Del.; John Megary, New-Orleans.

After the examinations, and previous to their final departure from the Academic groves, the graduates will participate in a friendly aquatic contest with members from the other classes. It is now definitely announced that General GRANT will visit the Point about the 10th inst., being desirous to learn of the progress made by his son, who has been here for the last three years. General SHERMAN is expected to be present, and make the parting address to the graduates. The martial exercises will terminate with the customary hops and festivities. Among the pleasure seekers who are now sojourning here are Mr. and Mrs. FRANCIS SKIDDY, General DANIEL BUTTERFIELD, Professor PECK, of Columbia College; Mr. D. VAN NOSTRAND, the publisher; General CULLUM, Ex-Superintendent of the Academy, and others. An enjoyable opening hop was given at COZZENS' Hotel last evening, and was attended by many of the officers of the Academy. There were about one hundred ladies present. The hotel has been considerably improved since last Summer, and now offers accommodations for an increased number of guests.

THE TURF.

The Spring Trotting Meeting on the Union Course, Long Island—First Day—Lady Soare Wins the $500 Purse for Three-Minute Horses, and George M. Patchen, Jr., the $500 Purse for 2:34 Horses—The Great Trot To-day—Latest Betting.

The Spring Trotting Meeting on the Union Course, Long Island, commenced yesterday under the most favorable auspices. Beautiful weather, a large assemblage of visitors, good track, numerous entries, and good fields of starters, must have made the enterprising proprietor of the Union Course feel assured of the ultimate success of the meeting. His liberality was evinced in offering nearly $7,000 for public trotting competition, apportioned in seven purses, and adapted to horses of different grades of speed. For these the entries had been unprecedentedly large; no fewer than eighteen horses entering for the three-minute purse of $500 yesterday, and twelve for the $500 purse for 2:34 horses on the same day. Although the concourse yesterday was large, there is no doubt but that the public are reserving themselves for the great race to-day, the most important of the meeting, in which the seven celebrated fast trotters, Lady Thorn, American Girl, Lucy, Bashaw, Jr., Goldsmith Maid, George Wilkes and Myron Performer will meet together. A race of such vast importance rarely occurs on the trotting turf, and all who love the recreations of the trotting turf will take advantage of the opportunity to witness it.

The first race yesterday was for three-minute horses, mile heats, three in five, in harness, for which the following six horses out of the eighteen entered came upon the track: D. MACK's b. m. Lyelie Thompson, RALPH OGLE's b. g. Pat, JOHN MURPHY's br. m. Lady Soare, ALEC. PATTERSON's br. s. Manhattan, M. RODEN's blk. g. Eight Bells, and J. CUDNEY's b. g. Twist.

SUMMARY.

UNION COURSE, L. I., JUNE 1.—Purse $500, mile heats, in harness, for three-minute horses; first horse, $300; second, $125; third, $75.

J. Murphy's br. m. Lady Soare	1	1	1
A. Patterson's br. s. Manhattan	2	4	2
R. Ogle's b. g. Pat	3	2	3
D. Mack's br. m. Lyelie Thompson	4	3	4
M. Roden's blk. g. Eight Bells	dis.
J. Cudney's b. g. Twist	dis.

Time—2:36, 2:38½, 2:38.

The second race was for 2:34 horses, for a purse of $500, mile heats, in harness. Twelve horses started, and four of them finished. These were DAN MACE's b. g. George M. Patchen, Jr., R. ALLEN Morton, J. CASLEY's b. s. No Name, and A. JOHNSON's s. George M. Patchen, Jr., of Baltimore. The last-named horse was the favorite at $100 to $60 against the field, and he fully justified the confidence of his numerous backers, by winning easily in three straight heats. Time—2:36, 2:36¾, 2:37.

The pool selling on the great race to-day was illustrated last night at JAKE SOMERINDYKE's rooms, at Chamberlain's Hotel, No. 1,199 Broadway, where American Girl had the call against the field. At JOHNSON's pool-rooms, corner of Broadway and Twenty-eighth-street, the same rule of betting prevailed, Lady Thorn having few warm friends to support her against a team that already beaten twice this Spring. At BERGH & BROTHERS', where no commission of pools is charged, Mr. LOVELL's mare was freely taken against the field. From the betting her success would appear a certainty, but as is well known, there is no such thing on the trotting turf.

The Jerome Park Summer Race Meeting—The Match Day—Four Races.

To-day is the match day of the American Jockey Club at Jerome Park, preliminary to their regular Summer meeting, which commences on Saturday next. This day is devoted to the running of match races exclusively, there being four of these interesting contests on the programme, and to witness which we anticipate seeing a large and fashionably select concourse of visitors. The first match is a dash of one mile for the important stakes of $10,000, and is between Mr. R. W. GARRISON's two-year-old filly by his imported stallion Lexington, out of the imported mare Jericho, by Jerico; and Messrs. DUNCAN & CRAWFORD's two-year-old bay colt, by the native bred stallion Conor, out of The Gleaner by Glencoe. The second is a match for $2,000, one mile, between Mr. BELMONT's imported bay colt Scott, by Oxtoll, dam by Kingston, and Mr. F. V. THORNE's bay filly Rosalene, both three-year olds. The third is for $1,000 a side, three-quarters of a mile, between Mr. M. A. LOTHELL's chestnut colt, two years, by Bulrooster, dam Eunice Johnson, and Messrs. BURNS & TRAVIS' ch. f. Tadmor, two years, by Bulrooster, out of Jenny Rose; this, however, we hardly think will come off. The fourth is for $600, six furlongs, between Mr. LAWRENCE's ch. s. Parade, and Mr. PURDY's ch. f. Rocks, each carrying 100 pounds.

THE PRESBYTERIANS.

Closing Meeting of the Old Schools—Religious Prospects Among the Freedmen—Church Difficulty in Kentucky.

On the opening of the morning proceedings the report of the Committee on Freedmen came up, and the several resolutions were separately voted upon. All were adopted, except one in favor of employing ministers connected with Southern Churches, provided they were in connection with the Assembly. A report by Rev. THOMAS H. SKINNER, D.D., upon the state of religion, was adopted. A committee was then appointed on Northern Seminaries. A deputation was afterward introduced from the Pastoral Association of the Methodist Church in New-York and vicinity. They were cordially welcomed.

A report of the Committee of the Board of Domestic Missions then came up, and was adopted.

Rev. HENRY P. YOUNG, of the Presbytery of Austin, Texas, spoke upon the missions in that State. He said there were 200,000 colored people in Texas, and that the Methodist Church had sent many missionaries among them. It had three colored churches in Galveston alone. He urged that the Presbyterian Church should send more laborers to that field.

Rev. Dr. MATTOON offered resolutions to the effect that the Presbyterian Church had organized seventy-one churches among the Freedmen of the South, with a prospect of forming many more. He urged that competent ministers should be speedily sent among them. The resolutions stated that the Biddle Memorial Institute, at Charlotte, N. C., was well adapted for supply this want, through being in the centre of the colored population of the South, and that it should receive aid.

Rev. Mr. FLUHRER offered a resolution that the Committee of this Assembly on Systematic Beneficence, prepare and send to the Synod and Presbyteries the proportionate amount to be raised, according to the estimate made by that committee. It was adopted with the understanding that the following be in general the estimates: Foreign Missions, $810,000; Domestic Missions, $700,000; Publication, $60,000; Freedmen, $50,000; Disabled Ministers' Fund, $40,000; Church Extension, $90,000; Freemen, $95,000. Total, $2,735,000.

A resolution was adopted urging upon ministers and Christian people the necessity of using strenuous efforts to prevent a desecration of the Sabbath.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Action was taken, on reassembling, upon the Church difficulties in Kentucky. The report on the Danville Theological Seminary having been taken up, Rev. Drs. TERRIEN and WEST, Professors in that institution, spoke briefly upon it. As some trouble existed in connection with its government, these gentlemen were added to the Board of Directors.

Rev. Dr. MCKNIGHT then spoke upon the state of church affairs in Kentucky. It appeared that a large majority of the property belonged to the Presbyterian Church in Kentucky, and before the war lay in the names of trustees. These individuals, during the rebellion, had separated themselves from the control of the General Assembly, and joined a Southern Church organization. They had appropriated the incomes of the properties which they held as trustees to the Southern wing, and this the General Assembly objected to, claiming to be the original Church to which the property was donated. Several cases had been carried to the Kentucky Courts, and, through the rebel sympathies of the judges and jurors had been awarded against the General Assembly, which had previously given its decision. In one case Dr. MCKNIGHT stated a Court had presumed to say who should be elders in a Church and who should not, and the Church had determined to carry their grievances before the United States Supreme Court.

Resolutions were adopted that the General Assembly should render assistance to the Church of Kentucky, and recommended it to protect against injurious and unnecessary litigation of civil Courts. It was also resolved to appropriate $5,000 toward employing the best counsel to argue the different cases before the Supreme Court of the United States.

Dr. MUSGRAVE considered the question one of religious liberty. He hoped the Assembly would show the spirit of the old Covenanters, and resist, if necessary, to the death all interference of civil courts with matters purely religious. He asked what ecclesiastical bodies were worth if civil courts could reverse their action.

Senator DRAKE and Judge EYRESON followed with addresses, heartily indorsing the sentiments of Dr. MUSGRAVE. The Assembly seemed unanimous in coinciding with the sentiments expressed.

An election, after this, took place to fill vacancies in various Boards of Directors in different institutions under control of the Assembly. Thanks were voted for the use of the Brick Church, to the Press for their reports, to those citizens who had entertained members of the Assembly at their houses, and the Convention adjourned to meet on the 10th November next in the First Presbyterian Church of Pittsburg.

Probable Murder in Williamsburg.

The citizens of Williamsburg were thrown into a state of alarm yesterday afternoon by the rumor of a murder. It appears that JEREMIAH STRICKLAND has for some time failed to support his family, and his wife took refuge in the house of her brother, ISAAC B. WALTERS, No. 41 South Fifth-street. There STRICKLAND repaired yesterday to see his wife and child. He met his brother-in-law, WALTERS, and some words passed between them at which STRICKLAND took offence, and drawing his pistol his pocket fired two shots at WALTERS, wounding him in the left breast. STRICKLAND at once gave himself up to the Police, and was lodged in the Forty-fifth Precinct Station-house. Drs. CREAMER, NORTH and WRIGHT attended the wounded man, but owing to the critical nature of the wound, the bullets were not extracted. Mr. WALTERS was living at 2 o'clock this morning, but no hopes are entertained of his recovery. Coroner WHITEHILL held an post-mortem examination.

Hagan's Magnolia Balm.

This article is the true secret of beauty. It is what fashionable ladies, actresses and opera singers use to produce that cultivated, distinguished appearance so much admired in the circles of fashion.

It removes all unsightly blotches, redness, freckles, tan, sunburn and effects of Spring winds, and gives to the complexion a blooming purity of transparent delicacy and power. No lady who values a fine complexion can do without the Magnolia Balm. 75 cents will buy it of any of our respectable dealers. Depot, No. 21 Park-row, New-York.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

There was but a small attendance at Exchange yesterday. Messrs. BLEECKER & CO. sold the property No. 67 Chatham-street, southeast corner of Chambers, for $14,000. It is worth more, and probably would have brought a much larger price, but for the fact that it is incumbered with a five-year lease, with privilege of twenty-one years' renewal at an annual rental of $1,800. Messrs. MALLORY & BLACKWELL made an effort to dispose of the property known as Bellefield, located at Hyde Park, on the Hudson. The bidding was very slow, and it was finally knocked down for $20,000. It is hardly probable that it was a bona fide sale. The property is reported to be worth more than three times that amount, and it is hardly likely the owner would permit it to be sacrificed.

To-day Messrs. A. D. MELLICK, Jr., & BRO. have a positive sale of 150 villa plots, located at Avenel, N. J. If the day is fair, a large number of persons will undoubtedly attend, and as the property presents several quite desirable features, the prices obtained will probably be quite satisfactory. The term of this sale, as originally advertised, were not favorable; too much cash was required to make it much of an inducement for persons of moderate means to buy. They do not usually desire to pay more than 30 or 40 per cent. in cash. The rest of their money they can use to better advantage in building. Most persons buying small plots in the country wish to build houses at once and occupy them. They go into the country to get rid of paying rent and to own homes. If the ground alone is too expensive, or requires too much ready money, that aim is defeated and the object to buy is taken away. These facts being brought to the owner's attention, he authorized a change. The terms will be more liberal and will be quite acceptable to the buyers. They will be announced at the place of sale. A special train will start from the foot of Liberty-street at 11:15 A. M., stopping at Newark, Elizabeth and Rahway. Maps, free tickets and particulars may be had at the auctioneers' office, No. 26 Pine-street.

At Orange, N. J., at 2 o'clock P. M., Mr. AARON QUINBY will sell a large house and 1¾ acres of land, on the hill overlooking Orange Valley.

To-morrow Messrs. A. D. MELLICK, Jr. & BRO., have a sale of one hundred villa plots at Plainfield, N. J. There have been quite a number of sales all around Plainfield, but, until now, none in the city proper. This property is within ten minutes' walk of the depot, and is very beautifully located. The country round about is very beautiful; the rich plain upon which it is located lies nestled at the foot of the first mountain, running around to Scotch Plains Village, and is a tract of land and landscape unsurpassed for beauty, health and fertility by any spot in that part of the State. The valley is free from swamps, salt meadows, miasmas and ferns. The whole tract is a rich garden land, in a high state of cultivation. The country is just sufficiently rolling to make the rides and drives pleasant. Sand is abundant for building purposes. The subsoil is composed of gravel and the country consequently dry and healthy. Fine brooks of pure spring water from the mountains add to its attractions, and the shelter from the fierce north wintry winds afforded by the chain of mountains adds to its comforts. The city is well supplied with churches, schools, stores, &c., &c. A special train will leave the foot of Cortlandt-street at 11 o'clock A. M. Maps and tickets may be had at the auctioneers' office, No. 26 Pine-street.

Friday and Saturday will be two quiet days. Before the grand excitement commenced, the first and last days of the week were days of rest. On them no sales were made. Now that the fever has passed off, men have returned to their sober senses are buying rationally rather than wildly, and the old practice is being revived.

PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY given by the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund of the City of New-York, that pursuant to the provisions of the act entitled "An act to authorize the construction of a Railroad through 23d-st., in the City of New-York," passed May 10, 1869, they will sell at public auction, in the "Grotto" in the Central Park, in said City, on WEDNESDAY, June 2, 1869, at 12 M., to the highest bidder for the same, the right, privilege and franchise to construct, operate, and use a railroad with a double track, and the proper turnouts and switches for the proper working of the same, through, along, and upon 23d-st., in the City of New-York, from the North River to the East River, on the following terms and conditions:

First—The person or persons or corporation whose bid shall be accepted on such sale shall, within four months from the day of the sale, finish and complete said road and equip the same with the requisite number of cars and horses; but should he or they be restrained or prevented by any legal proceedings which are not collusive from constructing and completing the said road within the time above specified, the said shall not be deemed or taken to be part of the time within which the same is to be completed. The said party or parties shall execute a bond in the sum of $50,000 to the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the City of New-York, in such form as the Commissioners, conditioned for the completion and equipment of the said railroad as above provided, subject to the conditions of the act above recited.

Second—Said railroad shall be constructed on the most approved plan for the construction of City railroads, and with the rail now used upon the street railroads in Philadelphia, commonly called the Philadelphia rail, and shall be run as often as the convenience of passengers may require, and shall be subject to such reasonable rules and regulations in respect thereto as the Common Council of the City of New-York may from time to time by ordinance prescribe; and the said party or corporation will be authorized by law to charge the same rate of fare for the conveyance of passengers on said railroad as is now charged by other City railroads in said

A FRONT AND BACK ROOM TO THE SMALL-POX.

History of the Present Epidemic in this City.

Its Origin and the Means Adopted for Stamping it Out.

Valuable Suggestions to the Public.

The fact that small-pox has been unusually prevalent in this City during the months of the Winter and Spring just past, is known to but few persons beside the health authorities and physicians. The matter was kept thus quiet from the best of motives, which are too apparent to need mention; but now that the danger has almost passed away, there can be no harm in making public all that is known of the history of the epidemic.

Our readers are doubtless aware that the disease has prevailed for several months past in nearly every part of Europe, and that vessels arriving from foreign ports have frequently brought one or more cases of small-pox with them, among the passengers of the steerage. Early in the month of November last these infected vessels began to arrive at this port, and soon afterward the disease made its appearance in one of the tenement-houses of the City, whither an immigrant who had been exposed to it on the passage had conveyed it. Other cases soon followed, and in a brief time afterward the records of the Health Board began to show figures that gave rise to alarm. Determined, if possible, to stay the progress of the disease, the Board issued a circular urging people everywhere to protect themselves by vaccination, if they had not already done so. Very few, however, heeded the advice thus given, and the as authorities were powerless to compel the people to submit to vaccination, very little good was effected by this action of the Board. The consequence was that with further arrivals of infected ships the distemper increased in extent and violence, until in the month of February the most serious apprehensions were entertained for the safety of the City. Meanwhile, the Board of Health did all that could be done in the premises. Whenever a case was reported, the patient was placed under the strictest sanitary surveillance, either at his or her residence, or at the Small-Pox Hospital on Blackwell's Island. If allowed to remain at home, the sufferers were closely quarantined, and no one but the physician and the health officers were allowed to communicate with them. Then every person dwelling in the same house who had not already been vaccinated was vaccinated at once, either by their own physician or by a Sanitary Inspector. As soon as the patient recovered or died, as the case might be, the apartment was thoroughly fumigated, and everything therein was completely disinfected, so that there was no longer any danger in that quarter.

Notwithstanding all these precautions the disease continued to spread, and as many as two or three, and sometimes more, new cases were daily
